Graduation '69 J.R. Smallwood Collegiate

The reigning monarchs of the graduates for 1969 make a very lovely pair indeed! Miss Doreen Besner and Brian Saunders.

A very charming young lady, Miss Doreen Besner was selected as Graduation Queen. Here we see Mrs. Huston, wife of the assistant resident manager crowning Doreen.

Miss Gloria Hawe representing the graduates was the class valedictorian.

On Thursday night, May 29, the ballroom of the Sir Wilfred Grenfell Hotel echoed to the sounds of the eager young graduates of J.R. Smallwood Collegiate. This was the night of their formal graduation ceremonies - an often looked forward to event during eleven long years of schooling.

The evening began at 6:30 p.m. with the serving of a delicious hot supper. As this concluded, the various after dinner speeches commenced with master of ceremonies being Lawrence Moss. Thomas Farrell proposed the toast to the graduates and this was responded to by Joseph March. Gloria Hawe delivered the Valedication and Tom Gillespie spoke on behalf of the Student Council. Guest speaker for the evening was William Huston, assistant resident manager of Wabush Mines. Mr. Huston spoke to the graduates about the complexities of the world to come and how they should prepare themselves to meet future challenges of that world.

The evening concluded with the graduation dance.

NTA workshop conducted

Labrador City (Staff)—The Labrador West branch of the Newfoundland Teachers' Association held a two-day workshop at Notre Dame Academy in Labrador City recently.

Two well known educators, one from Ontario and the other from this province were guest speakers. They were Lloyd Dennis, director of Education for Leeds, Granville Region, Ontario and co-author of the controversial Dennis-Hall report on education-Ontario and Dr. C.K. Brown, director of curriculum for the Province of Newfoundland and Labrador. Theme for the workshop was "Curriculum in a more Philosophic and Ideas Point of View Rather than a Specific Subject Area". Chairman for the occasion was Kyran Kennedy.

Mr. Dennis spoke on, "Living and Learning", which is the report that resulted from a special study initiated by and for the government of Ontario in 1965.

Mr. Dennis said other people who worked along with him on the report came back three years later with a new kind of sensitivity and a new kind of humility and enlightenment.

The content of the report, said Mr. Dennis, is offered to anyone who cares to listen to what the committee considered to be an impassioned plea for a new verve, new excitement and a new nobility for man.

The report suggested to the people of Ontario that it's about time a new humanity be found in their schools. He told local educators that the report is primarily geared to the educational system of his province but if the "shoe fits," under the local educational setup, "wear it."

He said the document has been criticized, called immoral, communistic that has ever been written about education because

Not enough emphasis on speaking, writing

Labrador City (Staff)—What's wrong with our schools?

Amy Borgeson a Grade 10 student at J.R. Smallwood Collegiate and Mac Penney, Grade 11 at Labrador City Collegiate, had strong feelings about the matter why they took part in a panel discussion on the Department of Education curriculum sponsored by the local branch of the Newfoundland Teachers' Association during a two-day workshop held last week.

Miss Borgeson said not enough emphasis is put on speaking and writing. The director of curriculum for the province, Dr. C.K. Brown agreed with Miss Borgeson that the curriculum is certainly deficient and limited in these two fields. He said it is hoped that in the near future to make drastic changes in curriculum, Miss Borgeson stated that students self expression is restricted in these two fields and steps should be taken to rectify the situation.

Mr. Penney stated flatly that the present curriculum is not doing the job. "Your the enemy and after 11 years it's my turn." He said in the past 11 years of his schooling, he saw no it pleads for pleasurable learning.

He told the teachers they are learners in the same situation that he is too and in order to get his point across, he would assume they were his class.

He said there is no man in society that has the responsibility of the teacher. To mould character and educate people, said Mr. Dennis is an awesome responsibility. Teachers should realize what they have bitten off when they assume this responsibility.

He feels there was much more to be learned than what is in the text book. Teachers must become involved. They must take clues from the students to help them understand what the student wants to know.

Mr. Dennis says the education system built up over the years its doors were almost impervious to the sounds of change. It's not anyone's responsibility to condemn the past but it has to be recognized the system was built in a different age.

Today's educational commitment, says Mr. Dennis, should be primarily to help the student find a better way of life and adapt to his own skills.

Following this session Mr. Dennis fielded many questions from the floor from enthusiastic teachers and parents.

Next morning Mr. Dennis once again addressed delegates on the topic of "Non grading in schools" which was followed with a panel discussion. Panelists were Mr. Dennis, Dr. C.K. Brown, Mrs. Robert Martin, Larry Moss and two high school students, Amy Borgeson of J.R. Smallwood Collegiate and Mac Penney of the Labrador City Collegiate.

The evening session heard an address by Dr. Brown on "Curriculum development in Newfoundland," following which workshop groups took time out to discuss the topic among themselves.

significant change in curriculum. He says because of this, many students, by the time they reach grade nine want to get out. "The main aim of education should be to prepare the student for the future and our present curriculum is not doing the job."

He concluded by saying that education in this province is dictated by the state and does not fulfill the needs of the student.

The Labrador City student said things must change. Buildings must change, teachers will have to listen more to students and do less talking. He charged that walls that separate students and promote cliques must be removed. This type of environment only narrows the students outlook.

Miss Borgeson expressed the view that denominational system of education also has its drawbacks. "It separates us when we want to be together."

To the charge that most students don't seem to accept their role in the school, both Mr. Penney and Miss Borgeson felt this may be the case in some instances on the part of a minority of students which they claim makes it bad for the rest.

This was just part of the group that left here by chartered Boeing 737 jet May 28 for their homes on the island. Here parents and their children pre-boarding the aircraft. This sight was not uncommon during the past two weeks following the major layoff at Wabush Mines. The situation may worsen as the Iron Ore Company of Canada announced last week that similar type layoffs could be expected if the labor situation on the Quebec North Shore continues. (Biron Photo)

Greater flexibility being planned

Labrador City (Staff)—The Director of Curriculum for the province, Dr. C.K. Brown, told a two-day workshop for teachers, sponsored by the local branch of the Newfoundland Teachers' Association here last week, that curriculum development in our schools will probably continue at all levels and will be a mixture of production and selection since the province does not have the funds to attempt any major projects.

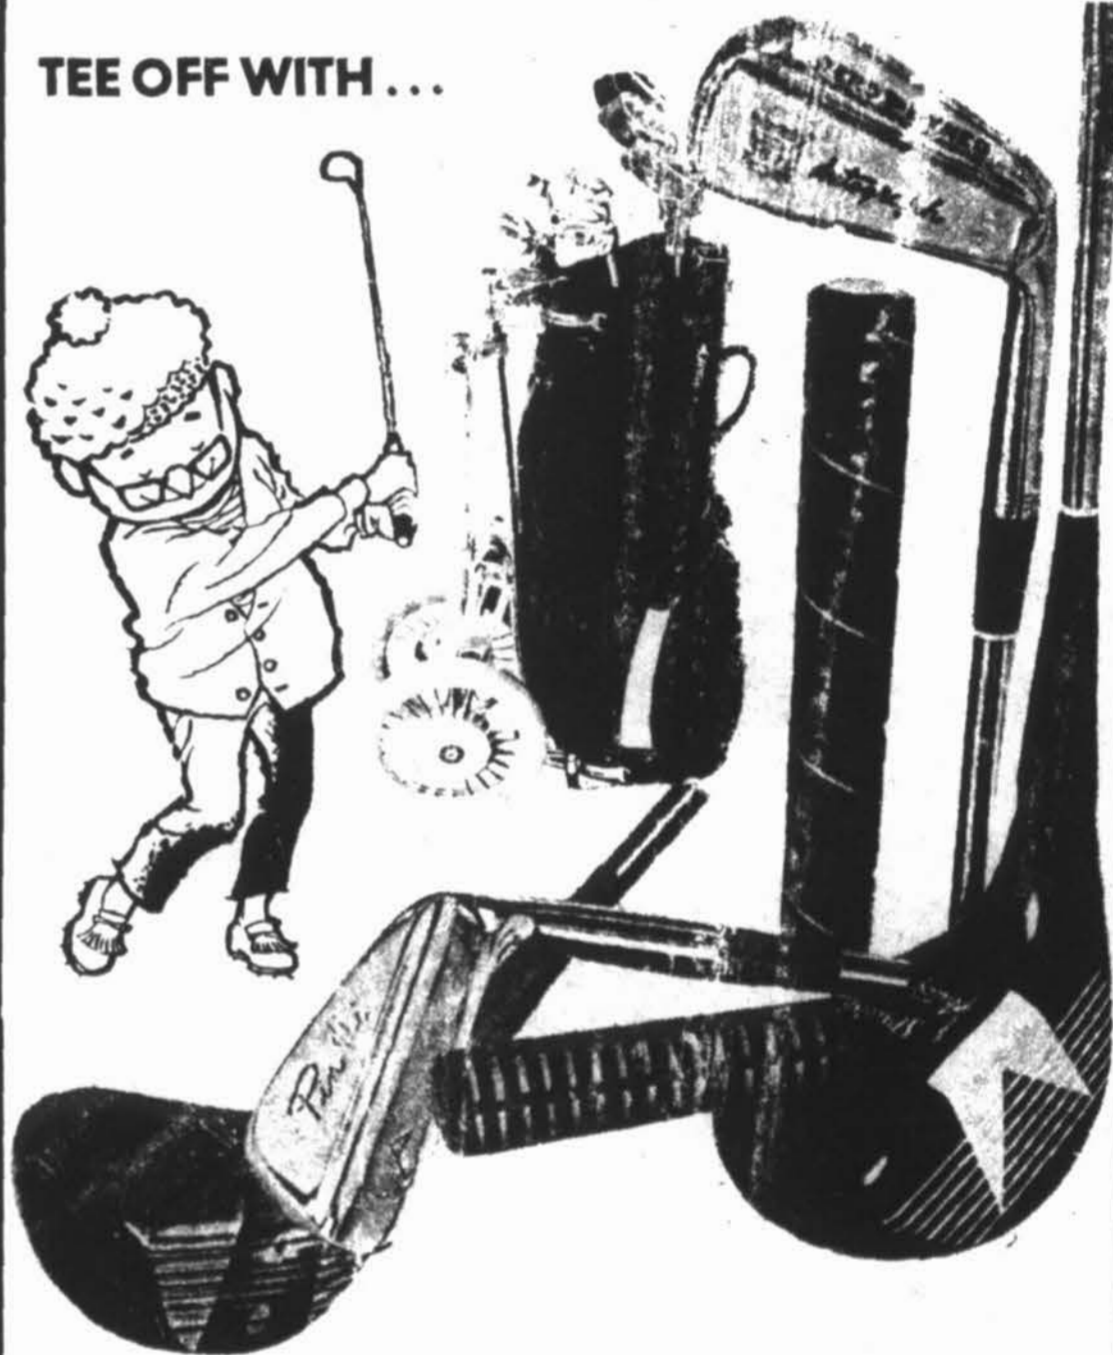

"Even if finances were available, teachers would have little time for development of a complete curricula, he said.

"This role, said Dr. Brown is likely to remain in the hands of the province or educational publishers.

"In the future, he said, the curriculum division of the Department of Education will be aiming in new directions. There will be greater flexibility in the curriculum. This will include a basic program prescribed with room for selection and modification by teacher and pupil. There will be more services to schools and districts such as consultant services, workshops, curriculum materials and bulletins".

Dr. Brown said it is hoped that there will be greater involvement in curriculum by Continued on Page 6

Scanning the market by C.S. Devine

Instead of a continuance of Toronto Industrials, we will this week, substitute excerpts from a recent Investors Guide titled, "How To Avoid Risks in Buying Canadian Stocks."

Contrary to what many people believe, buying common stocks can be both an art and a science. Stock prices do not go up or down without rhyme or reason; buying stocks need not necessarily be something akin to betting on the horse races. But, buying stocks does entail risk. Many pitfalls await the unwary investor: some of them are obvious, some not so obvious. Still, by following a definite approach, the approach which in one form or another is used by most professional investors, you can avoid the major risks.

Buying stocks can be fun too. Successful investing involves some careful sleuthing, the application of intelligence and the exercise of judgment. If these things are applied properly, the results can be most rewarding. You will make money and enjoy doing it.

1. Have you assessed your overall financial position?

The lure of potential profits in the stock market is such that a great many people buy common stocks. Often this is their first mistake. The ownership of equities, as common stocks are sometimes called, entails risk, and many people are not in a position to afford this risk. The first thing to do therefore, when someone recommends his favorite mining speculation to you, is to assess your own financial position and ask yourself a number of questions.

How much life insurance have I got and is it sufficient to cover my needs? Obviously if you have a wife, four children and an elderly mother who will become destitute if you fall in front of a bus, you need a fair amount of life insurance.

It is always wise to have some easily accessible money available for emergencies. For a single fellow, who is young and fancy free, it need only be a few hundred dollars, but a man with more responsibilities should have perhaps $2,000-$3,000 tucked away in Canada Savings Bonds. If, after assessing your overall financial situation, you conclude that you can indeed afford to buy common stocks, ask yourself one final thing - will I be able to relax once I have made my purchase? Or will I lie awake at night, wondering if some disaster is impending, having seen that my shares are down two points in one day?

2. Have confidence.

You have now bought the stock of your choice. Initially the price may fluctuate a little, or it may start to move up. In due course you may see a paper profit of 15% or even 25% on your original investment.

Then there may be a reaction. It might be the result of profit-taking by others, it might be caused by the liquidation of an estate or an institutional holding, it might follow some unfounded rumor or it could be the result of a number of other factors. This is where you can make your final mistake - do not panic. Do not lose confidence in the decision you have made. If you have checked out your company and its stock thoroughly, the chances are that you have a real winner and that time will prove you right. Stick by your decision - and you will make money.

Next week. Back to the Toronto Industrials.

Letter to the Editor

Who's to blame?

The Editor,
The Aurora,

Dear Sir:

The massive lay-off which began in this area a couple of weeks ago has caused an undesirable emotion among the residents of this mining town. The men and women who left their homes in all parts of Newfoundland and Canada to come here to make a living and new homes, have been pushed backwards by the company's actions, which was not entirely necessary.

Sure, the company's involved and a hell of a lot of people say it's the union's fault that this layoff occurred, or maybe it's the fault of the striking workers on the docks and railways of the Quebec North Shore, but lets take another look. If the companies were to break down and come forward with a little extra in the collective agreements, would all this disturbance be going on today?

A few days ago I was present at the Wabush airport when the Aurora took photos of the people departing with their families. There were clergymen and school teachers, even some medical people there to wish everyone a quick return, but I didn't see any of the top brass there with any comments. Well, I must say that it's a very sad situation to have to sit and think, what will the future bring to us people here in Labrador West?

K. Lee
Vice-President, Local 6285.

SPCA planning open shelter for animals

Labrador City (Staff) - The local branch of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals intends to open an animal shelter in the town.

Temporary quarters, consisting of a garage on Hudson Drive, have been donated by the Iron Ore Company of Canada. This building will be renovated to accommodate animals until a permanent building can be located outside the town.

Mrs. Jean Farr, honorary agent for the SPCA in Labrador West, said the group is hoping to raise funds by dances, an approach to local businessmen and by public appeal to cover the cost of construction.

Mrs. Farr said the shelter is an absolute need since people have a habit of leaving their animals, even though it's punishable by law.

She revealed that the local group hopes to have a qualified vet visit the area on a regular basis.

In this connection, she stated, Dr. Marcel Pellerin of Sherbrooke, Que., was here recently and held a successful clinic. She said Dr. Pellerin indicated he would be willing to come to Labrador City on a regular basis as long as his expenses are covered.

He has scheduled another clinic here on July 13. A supply of medications and instructions on their use has been left with the local branch. Medication and animal vaccines are available at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Duiverman, 627 Hudson Drive or by calling 944-5371. Residents with pets who are anxious to avail of Dr. Pellerin's service, are asked to call 944-5327 for an appointment.

A branch of the SPCA was officially formed here in November of 1967. Presently the group has a membership of approximately 25 and the executive consists of Mrs. Peter Corcoran, president; Mrs. Marjorie Murphy, vice-president; Mrs. Gladys Walker, secretary and Mrs. Ken Anderson of Wabush, treasurer.

Water Safety and You

By Ron Brophy

HISTORY OF SWIMMING

What prompted man to take to the water is a matter of pure conjecture, yet, from what is known of the pre-history of man and from our present day knowledge of primitive peoples, it can be said that the three fundamental motivating forces were economic necessity, comfort and preservation of life in the face of danger.

In the Nimraoud Gallery of the British Museum is a series of excellent bas-reliefs depicting swimming figures, which were discovered in the Nimraoud Place in Assyria by Sir Austin Henry Layard. These bas-reliefs are assigned to a period about 800 B.C. and most of them are of military nature showing scenes of a battle or assault in which the soldiers are crossing streams. In most cases they are shown swimming with the aid of a mussuk (an inflated goat or sheep skin) which is used in the near east even to this day.

The earliest form of swimming stroke probably was what Ralph Thomas, in his splendid and authoritative work on swimming, chooses to call the "human stroke." It is described as an alternate arm thrust forward and downward with the recovery made under water and an alternate up and down thrust of the legs.

This stroke is in common use today especially among self-taught novices, and is better known as the "dog paddle"...The necessity for speed undoubtedly played a definite part in the development of the over arm stroke. Incidentally, it may be remarked that early explorers reported that the North American Indians were hand-over-hand swimmers and it is interesting also to note that when this stroke was brought to England in 1873 by Robert Trudgen, it was promptly labelled the Indian stroke.

"The question this week is. If a swimmer became tangled in weeds while swimming, what is the best stroke to use?"

- (a) Back crawl
- b) Breast stroke
- c) Front crawl.

The answer will appear in the next week's issue of The Aurora. By the way, here's a reminder - June 1-7 is being observed as Red Cross Water Safety Week.

In and Around J.R.S.C.

By Krystyna Feretycki

On Sunday, May 18, Allied Youth showed the movie "Marriage-Go-Round." The purpose besides that of enjoyment for the viewers, was the raising of funds for future dances and travelling expenses.

Monday, May 12, was the morning set aside for the scholarship examination which hundreds of students across Newfoundland and Labrador wished to write. This was a three hour examination, consisting of two parts - Mathematics (Algebra and Geometry) and English. The provincial government is awarding 250 scholarships of $200. each. Congrats to the lucky 250.

For the benefit of thousands of high school students across Canada, the federal, provincial and territorial administrations are arranging a number of student exchanges during the summer vacation. 168 "Young Voyageurs" (7 groups of 24) will be involved in the exchange in Newfoundland and Labrador. Half of the group from Labrador will be comprised of six students from Wabush (Johnny LaCour, Joe March, Eric Cannell, Bev Brace, Krys Feretycki, Gloria Hawe) and six students from Labrador City, three boys and three girls from each townsite. As far as we know our group will be going to Prince Albert, Saskatchewan or Winnipeg, Manitoba. But, we are sure of the fact, that the exchanges will be approximately two weeks and that each group will have two chaperones, one male and one female. Further info concerning these exchanges may be given at a later date.

On Thursday night, May 29, at the Sir Wilfred Grenfell Hotel, the teachers and parents joined the students in their celebration of hopeful graduation. Before the dance a dinner was held especially for the graduates, their dates and the high school teachers. Mr. Houston, assistant resident manager, was guest speaker for the evening and Mr. Moss, a high school teacher, was master of ceremonies. Doreen Besner and Brian Saunders were crowned Queen and King of their graduation class. The Prom was a big success. Music was supplied by the Crystals.

Jaycees officially formed and hold first election

Wabush (Staff) — The Labrador City-Wabush Jaycees was officially formed here on Tuesday, May 27, when the group elected its slate of officers for the coming year.

Wabush businessman, John Louis Desrochers was elected president. Other officers are Vice-President, John Malinoski; Secretary-Treasurer, Mike Timmins and Directors Ian Patterson, Wayne May and Ron Brophy. The election took place at a dinner meeting of the group in the Sir Wilfred Grenfell Hotel.

On hand for the occasion was Ellis Butt of the Corner Brook Jaycees who, in addressing the new club, presented a history and explained the aims and functions of Jaycees.

Following his address, he was presented with a suitable gift as a memento of his visit by President Desrochers.

Mr. Butt told members it would be to their advantage if arrangement were made to send a delegate or delegates to the next board meeting of District six to be held at Stephenville, June 7 and to the Jaycees National Convention to be held in St. John's from June 28 to July 2. He also suggested that the group consider the formation of the Jaycettes.

Mr. Butt said that in the near future the name "Junior Chamber of Commerce" may be dropped entirely and replaced with the plain "Jaycees."

He said he was amazed at the co-operation the local group has been receiving from every quarter of the community. He said the Jaycees in Labrador West shows great potential and that its future growth is in its members hands. "The success of the Jaycees here", said Mr. Butt, "depends on how much work each individual member puts into it."

The group's plan of action for the next six months came in for considerable discussion.

The meeting concluded with the election of Mayor James Hogan as immediately past president of the club and a short session on Parliamentary procedure.

LABWAB

Since we are rank amateurs in the art of writing these lines we develop an ego of sorts, and the first thing we read in the Aurora is our column. It does not always turn out exactly as we typed it. We have now crossed our fingers and hope that from here on out it is produced as we write it. To the letter.

The Lions barrel sank on May 21, 16 hours, 33 minutes and 02 seconds. Official word of this momentous foundering was made known on the screen of the Royal Theatre locally but awards to the brains-trust who estimated the actual time were withheld until this afternoon when Angus (Hank) Banfield became a grand wealthier, Velo Arumets was notified that he was runner-up for second place and Charlie Jubber (Labwab's master baker) received an award for half time. All three fortunate gentlemen were from Labrador City. This may indicate to the illiterate masses that people are smarter in Labrador City than they are in Wabush. This is not necessarily so, the reason being that there are more Lions in Labrador City than there are in Wabush to promote such things as barrel sinkings. Besides, everybody knows that people in Wabush are smarter anyway. Ha ha!!!, at any rate the Lions now have something going for them every year which should be of significant financial return for their many good works. Good luck to them all.

Went out to the airport on Wednesday night of this week and received quite a shock. We thought Prime Minister Trudeau was a drawing card when he visited here last year, but he was strictly a second-rater when it came to getting a crowd. EPA's Boeing 737 with it's hundred and some odd outgoing Labwabians brought out the largest throng we have seen locally for many a moon. The crowd at the terminal, and the cars lined up along the old road which borders the runway were impressive enough, but understandable when you consider the very large passenger list and all the friends and well wishers involved. Significant to us was the efficiency with which the big bird landed, the passengers boarded, and the resulting take-off and flight. Slightly more than 20 minutes were spent in boarding, and one hour and 34 minutes was consumed in flying to St. John's. This says a lot for EPA, the flight crew, and Cyril Penton and his staff, and it indicates that one of our major gripes of the past may be coming to a close. We hear that the flight to St. John's was a real smooth deal all the way, and is simply a forerunner of better service to come. Commencing tomorrow Labwab rapid transit (we like that name) will have a jet service seven nights a week with stops at Deer Lake and Gander on alternate nights. Keep up the good work L.R.T., and Labwab will bless you.

Speaking of gripes and pet peeves, we heard a good one the other day. It seems that a certain group in Sept Iles feels quite put upon that there are so few automobiles being shipped that way this year. Well we do too, but our reasons are slightly different. The Sept Iles group we hear, are miffed that they no longer have trains-load of fine new cars to enhance their car parts business. Bad boys, you'll just have to find batteries, tires, hubcaps and chrome trim somewhere else. Come to think of it, that is the one blessing to come out of all this strike and layoff situation.

The other night we had occasion to call the R.C.M.P. Mrs. T-Dor didn't throw us down the cellar stairs, or anything like that, it was simply a call for information about T-Dor Jr's. driving licence. The call turned out to be quite a chore. First of all nobody answered at 282-3133. Then we called the R.C.M.P. detachment in Labrador City. Constable so-and-so answered and we stated our problem which went like this. not open for business in the evenings?"

"Yes sir, they are on duty over there. You should call constable so-and-so. His number is in the book."

"I hate to admit to this constable, but I don't happen to know constable so-and-so. That being the case what would I have done if my call had been of more urgent circumstances, you know, what if I were mugged or shot at, and stuff?"

"Well now you have a point there sir, but what is your immediate problem?"

Our immediate problem was little T-Dor's driving licence, and this was dispensed with. We cogitated on the overall communications picture for some little while and finally called a fire fighting friend.

"Hello fire-fighter, old buddy, this is T-Dor. Tell me something, assuming we are strangers around Labway, and we suddenly me something, assuming we are strangers around Labwab, and we suddenly and finally, "how can you be so stupid T-Dor, call the boiler-room.

Some days we just can't win,

Yours in flames,
T-Dor.
