Production at the giant multi-million dollar Iron Ore Company of Canada complex in Labrador City has ceased. The shutdown has thrown hundreds of men out of work. Labor troubles on the Quebec Noeth Shore has caused a halt to rail shipments of ore to the Company's docking facilities at Seven Islands, and the arrival of necessary materials for production.

Tennis players given awards

Wabush (Staff) — A banquet and presentation of awards for the past season's indoor tennis activities took place at the Sir Wilfred Grenfell Hotel during the past week. Chairman for the occasion was John Miller.

Top awards were presented by William Luby of the Wabush Recreation Association.

The various winners were: men's singles, Bruce Brown. Ladies' singles, June Whitfield. Mixed doubles Yvonne McKim and Kurt Spitznagel. The men's doubles award went to Bruce Brown and Pat Beresford.

Consolation awards went to Mary Miller, Terry Whitfield, Al Leonfellner, Pilte Leonfellner. These awards were presented by Garnet Dunsmore, vice-chariman of the Wabush Recreation Association.

During the presentations, Cladue Gauthier, President of the Caribou Tennis Club, Labrador City presented Bruce Brown with a lifetime membership to the Labrador City club in recognition of his outstanding work in promoting the game of tennis in the area.

Mr. Brown then introduced Miss Joyce Noel who was recently appointed summer recreation director for the association for the summer months.

Mr. Brown who is secretary of the board of directors of the association and also the tennis director announced that Mr. John Miller, Marcel Lesveque, Dr. Colin Moseley and Mrs. Yvonne McKim as the tennis committee this summer. Mr. Miller will serve as chairman. Other appointments to the committee will be made in the near future which will include a representative from the junior ranks.

Mr. Brown in making a few remarks, thanked all who had helped in any way in promoting the game of tennis in the past and hoped younger and newer participants will be attracted to the sport in the future.

In a short meeting after the presentations he outlined this summer's program to the new committee. Plans are presently being formulated to start a membership drive.

The club this year will be taking a big step when it affiliates with the Newfoundland and Labrador Lawn Tennis Association.

Mr. Miller in thanking Mr. Brown for his interest and efforts on behalf of the game of tennis pointed out that Mr. Brown and his wife Joyce will be leaving the area shortly to take up alternate employment on the island. He was a supervisor at Wabush Mines for the past six years.

Mr. Brown is off to Holyrood where he has accepted a position with the Newfoundland and Labrador Power Commission.

The enjoyable evening concluded with a social hour and dance.

For the second week in a row the regular weekly food train arrived on schedule in Labrador West. Shown is part of the number of cars as supplies are unloaded to transport trucks for distribution to the various food outlets. (Biron Photo)

Wabush board of trustees holds regular meeting

Wabush (Staff) The regular meeting of the board of trustees of the local improvement district of Wabush met last week.

Town Clerk, Norman Genge informed the meeting that the aerial insect spray program has now been completed. Treatment of the lakes and rivers in the area will continue on a weekly basis. The fogging program around the town will commence the first week in July and is expected to conclude around the end of August.

Municipal Police Chief, Steve Arsenault, was instructed to make a crackdown on the town's regulations concerning the curfew for children 16 years and under. Mr. Arsenault is asking parents to co-operate in this respect in making sure this regulation is carried out.

The police chief will also be on the lookout for speeding violators. Mr. Arsenault said that not only motorists in general but motor cycle operators should be extra careful during the summer months especially, with the schools closed and so many kids on the streets.

The town is going to throw its full support behind the proposed playground which the Canadian Legion in Wabush hopes to put into operation. The news was welcomed by the board and commended the group on its community mindedness. A possible site is located between Whiteway and Dunfield streets across from the fire hall.

Recreation in general was the topic of a special meeting held June 18 in the recreation centre. Representatives of the board and the various other organizations discussed the various areas of recreation in which they could play a role.

Mr. Genge noted that children in the town are erecting "club houses" in various locations. He said such action is contrary to building regulations and are also potential fire traps. He said a number of such type houses have already been dismantled. He asked parents co-operation in this regard, stating that such structures could easily result in serious injury or loss of life.

Some residnets are still using the Pumphouse Road for garbage disposal. The board points out this is contrary to regulations and persons caught will be referred to the Provincial Health department, for possible prosecution.

The current labor unrest in the Quebec North Shore is also causing a slowdown in the town's house construction program. The halt of rail traffic has left contractors without much of the necessary materials for home construction. Plans call for the erection of 38 homes costing in the vicinity of $750,000. The planned paving of the trailer court is also delayed because of the labor situation.

The town's annual cleanup program is just about completed. Mr. Genge said litter containers are to be placed in various locations in the town for the convenience of residents. He urges the population to use these facilities to help keep the town as pretty as possible during the short summer months.

About eight students are working on this years clean-up program. Their jobs included general maintenance around the town site and the repainting of traffic lanes etc.

The current shortage of gasoline is causing the board some concern. They fear that some motorists may have reserve stocks located in and around their homes.

Liberal Association appoint committies

Wabush (Staff) The Labrador West Liberal Association voted unanimously that a Liberal leadership convention be held this year. The vote was taken at a meeting of the association here last week.

The purpose of the meeting was to review the constitution and make amendments where necessary.

Later in the week an executive meeting was held and the following committees were drawn up.

Policy and Research: Tom Price, Wm. Raymond, Tom Gillespie, Frank Leawood and E. Canning. Organization: Ella Crawley, Ron Whitten, Mike Vickers, John Loughlin and Patrick Hogan. Constitution and Party Structure: Cyril Fleming, Charles Stevens, Mrs. W. Antle, Joseph Ansara and Isaac Gullage. Membership: Pete Corcoran, Loretta Sherren, Clarence Horwood, Arthur Messervey, Joseph Roberts and Charlie Wilson. Communications: Lloyd Murchy, Alf Goose, Walter Gallant, Luke Normore and Eric Chaulk.

Association president, Nelson Sherren paid tribute to express the association's thanks to Bruce Brown a strong liberal supporter who is leaving the area to take up alternate employment on the island.

The next meeting is slated for the end of July when the executive board meets with the various committees.

Labrador situation points out necessity of link with Canada

Labrador City (Staff) — Tom Burgess, MHA for Labrador West, says that the situation faced by the residents of his riding, whereby essential supplies of fuel oil and gasoline have been cut off by a strike on the Quebec North Shore, does more to point up the necessity of a practiced link with the rest of Canada than anything else that has ever happened in this area.

He warned that the same situation may exist again 2½ years from now when negotiations roll around again. He said he seemed to remember not too long ago hearing a cabinet minister remark that isolation was "a state of mind".

"I believe that he was wholly sincere when he made the statement, but like so many other statements by government officials and representatives for Labrador who do not reside here, live on the scene, it would be impossible to convince Labrador residents of the accuracy of such remarks".

Mr. Burgess said it is time for the people of Labrador to take a long hard serious look at their situations, and be honest in their assessment of the fairness of the treatment which Labrador and its people are receiving from governments and authorities in all its facets."

"It is common knowledge that the provincial government receives practically 20 percent of its revenues from Labrador, in the form of personal income taxes, corporation taxes, royalties and SSA taxes".

Mr. Burgess estimates that Labrador West in particular along with the rest of Labrador, during the past ten years has paid in the form of taxes 250 to 350 million dollars.

"Not bad for one district out of 42. We earn it, so we are entitled to pay in order to contribute to the overall good of the province and the country. This is our responsibility as good citizens. In return, like good trusting citizens, we assume that governments in return will act in a responsible fashion toward us, provide the normal amenities and protect our interests and rights and do their utmost to ensure that we are part of the just society."

Mr. Burgess questioned the return the residents of Labrador West are receiving on their constructions

He went on "a complete lack of effort to even access the feasibility of a practiced road link with the rest of Canada, unless you talk about the Labrador Highway on which $2,500,000 has been spent in 1967-68 between Goose Bay and Churchill Falls which started from either end leaving approximately 80 miles uncompleted in the middle. The decision has been made not to spend any more money on the project in 1969-70. With the financial situation what it is, there is no likelihood that expenditures will be made in 1970-71.

The end result, said the Labrador West MHA is that the money already spent is a complete waste of money, since it will be necessary to rebuild every mile built so far.

"The alleged meetings that took place between Premier Smallwood and Premier Bertrand of Quebec on the feasibility of joint participation on the construction of a road from Labrador West to Seven Islands or points south of there, certainly has not resulted in heavy equipment traffic jams to complete same. Of course that could be because the Quebec Premier denies any knowledge of these meetings."

Commenting on another area of communications, he said there is a genuine display of government inaction in radio and TV programming in the area. He said TV programming is horrible. He felt the government was not capable of even suggesting program content.

"It didn't cost them (the provincial government) a cent to put the TV station here. It doesn't cost them a cent to maintain equipment or pay staff. Iron Ore Company of Canada does this. As I said, all they have to do is decide what programs we receive."

He felt the programs for Labrador West wouldn't be accepted by the rest of Canada.

He said he heard that Ambrose Peddle, PM for the riding say some time ago that TV and radio programming was poor in Labrador West.

"Boy, that's an understatement. I hope he continues to remember it when he gets up to speak in the House of Commons sometime. I haven't heard him mention it yet and if he has, it certainly hasn't brought about any improvement".

Moving on to the topic of the cost of living in his riding, Mr. Burgess said "here we see the government at its best, protecting the interests of its people in Labrador?"

He stated that although the Royal Commission on Food and Drugs did an admirable job in making people aware of the high cost of living, "they made us aware of nothing new. We have known all along we were paying through the nose. The commission laid emphasis on the fact that higher transportation costs was an important factor in this higher cost to the consumer.

What I would like to know, said Mr. Burgess, is why, a person living in Labrador City-Wabush, who buys his groceries in Seven Islands, pays the railway freight rate for transporting same here (one and one half cents per pound) and save 20-30 dollars on one hundred if they were to purchase the same goods here.

"We are told in general, that overheads are higher, staff wages, rent, heating maintenance etc. In Corner Brook store owners in the shopping centre are paying the same and in some cases high rent but I don't think their prices are the same."

Although staff wages may be slightly higher here, he said, he didn't think these employees are ready to retire and declare themselves millionaires.

Mr. Burgess asked if someone would explain where Labrador was in the mind of the federal authorities, when they implemented the subsidy for transportation and truckers in the Maritime Provinces.

In one breath they provided the subsidy with the thought in mind of reducing the cost of living and as an afterthought said Labrador will be given consideration in the future.

"I'm just wondering if anyone in government knows there is such a place as Labrador."

"Oh yes, I forgot, they do know. At least they know when it comes to collecting taxes," said Mr. Burgess.

He then went on to blast the various air line companies providing services in Labrador.

"The Labrador resident is rapidly becoming aware that passenger rates charged by Nordair, EPA and Quebec Air are approximately 30 to 40 percent higher than Air Canada for the equivalent distance in the rest of Canada". The Labrador West MHA inquired if someone would mind explaining this to Labrador residents.

"I am sure there was many a cynical smile on the faces of the people from Labrador City-Wabush when they saw the sign on Quebecair's counter in Wabush informing them fares to and from Seven Islands to Montreal had been reduced. Would you believe there is no reduction in fares from Wabush to Montreal with the same airline vis Seven Island," said Mr. Burgess.

He said that even Air Canada makes an exception for Labrador.

"Their freight rates from Montreal to Goose Bay are 90 percent higher than their rates for the same distance in any other part of Canada".

These few points, and there are more remarked Mr. Burgess, clearly indicates that residents of Labrador are being treated as "a bunch of suckers".

These points and many others, he said, deserve positive action and rectification in order to alleviate the common feeling of the people of Labrador that they are there only for what the government can extract from them with the minimum return.

Scanning the market

By C.S. Devine

Until the current sell-off in the industrials market calms down and saner trading is restored, it is rather pointless to review prices.

Somebody once compared the market to a great classroom where sooner or later all theories prove to be correct or everybody gets a chance to be the dunce.

Like all half-truths, this may sound profound, but it does not explain the "Great Nosedive". And it offers scant guidance for the days that lie ahead.

When the market went through its tailspin it became apparent that analysts may analyse and chartists may chart, but once it starts to work, up or down, results are often drastic. In other words, many investors still move emotionally with the pack; and that includes the pros as well as the amateurs.

The Canadian market sailed its own ship in 1968 and did well. But the movement has been sidetracked. What happens in New York or Washington now affects us here; and that hasn't been too good of late. The situation could change if the U.S. Congress approves extension of the 10 per cent surtax. Also, and here it is a very slim chance, something constructive will emerge in the peace talks. There were warnings the U.S. Federal Reserve Board means business in its fight against inflation, but the latest hike in interest rates came sharper and sooner than expected.

Don't rush in where angels fear to tread. But by the same token, do not pass up some excellent current buying opportunities in quality issues, especially among both the junior and senior oils. A major oil strike in the Arctic could bring another rush, although major issues have already anticipated good news. As for the industrials this is rumor time on Bay Street in Toronto. They say the interest hike is temporary, a month or so. They say banks may slash consumer loans. In the U.S. they say if higher interest doesn't do the job, price and wage controls may be next. What investors need above all else, is patience.

The Canadian economy is basically sound and while profit margins may level off compared to last year, those who sit tight can weather the storm. There are some bargain situations around, stocks selling at attractive buy in levels. Once the current reaction has run its course, the market will climb the hill again, although profits will be under pressure in the last half of the year as real output declines, price increases diminish and the cost-price gap narrows.

Inflation will still continue strongly this year, despite a reduction in real business activity. The rise in prices will be strengthened by the large component of service prices in the consumer price structure.

So, while a business slowdown is in sight, more time will be needed to reduce inflation. Among business indicators showing continuing strength this year, general bank loans in May posted their second straight 2 per cent monthly increase, consumer credit rose 1.5 per cent in March over February with a 9-10 per cent increase expected for all of 1969, retail sales rose 13.7 per cent in March over February and consumer prices rose 1.1 per cent from March to April, the highest monthly rise since 1956.

Capital spending still looks for a 9 per cent increase over 1968. Industrial production rose 1.6 per cent in March over February. Unemployment, although rising slightly to 4.4 per cent in May, still reflects good absorption of a fast growing labor force. Housing starts are high and mortgage lending continues strong. Bank liquidity continues to decline as bank loans rise and the money supply declines.

The implication of all this for the stock market is that prices should continue to move in a narrow range. On the plus side, new issues are adding breadth to the market, cash reserves of mutual funds are high, more institutional money is seeking equity investment, and the earnings outlook continues good for such groups as forest products, chemicals, base metals, utilities, building materials, banks and trust companies.

Things have been rough over the past month, but no need yet to leap off the Embassy Apartment Building (Ray H. wouldn't like it) but be cautious in your transactions.

Keep your fingers crossed during the next week.

You Are The Detective

The body of the well-known racehorse owner, Josh Dolan, lies on the floor of one of his stables. There is a blood-encrusted wound on the back of his head and on the front of his white shirt there is the dirty imprint of a horseshoe, the rounded part of the shoe just above the second button of the shirt and the well-defined outlines of the shoe's heels below that.

You pick up a half-smoked cigarette lying near the dead man's left hand, and then you lean over the door of the nearby stall to look at the horse which you have been told administered the fatal kick to its owner. You watch him paw nervously at the floor of the stall for a few minutes, then you turn to the trainer, Sam Wilson, who is standing nearby.

"He's had a few fits of temper in the past," says Wilson, "but Mr. Dolan always got along with him. I never thought he'd kick him this way. The kick, along with his falling and knocking the back of his head against the corner of that stall, must have been too much for Mr. Dolan's heart. He did have a bad ticker, you know."

"Did you see it happen?" you ask.

"No. I was just outside the stable when I suddenly heard the scuffling, then Mr. Dolan cry out. I ran in, and found him like this. I quieted the horse down, closed the door of the stall. I could see there was nothing to be done for Mr. Dolan... he was dead! It was really tough going up to the house and telling Mrs. Dolan!"

Later you question the grief-stricken widow. "I warned him many times to be more careful with that horse," she exclaims in between sobs. "We had several arguments about that... another little quarrel just before he went out this morning to visit the stable. Then when I saw Sam Wilson on his way to the house later, the expression on his face, I just knew he had bad news! The first thing I'm going to do is get rid of that horse!"

"As it so happens," you then say, "the horse is innocent. It's my belief that your husband was murdered!"

Why do you believe this?

SOLUTION

The position of the horseshoe mark on Dolan's white shirt front. A horse always kicks up, and the round part of the shoe could not, therefore, have been ABOVE the marks on the victim's head is the result of a blow by a killer, who then attempted to throw suspicion on the horse by imprinting a horseshoe's mark on the white shirt front - but carelessly failed to consider the correct positioning of the mark.

The summer recreation program for Labrador City commenced recently. Probably the busiest spot in town for the children is the town's playground. These pictures were taken one warm sunny day last week as the kids take part in the various activities available. (Biron Photo).

this week in ASTROLOGY BY CARL PAYNE TOBEY ILLUSTRATED BY DEGRAZIA

PAST

CRUCIAL EXPERIMENT

The U.S. Weather Bureau is drawing $250,000,000 a year to make long-range weather forecasts. "ANALOG" magazine conducted a "crucial experiment" in 1962. It had an astrologer, George J. McCormack, predict the U.S. weather for six months. Joseph Goodavage devised a means of making a random or chance prediction of the weather for the same period. During the interval, these two forecasts were checked against the $250 million forecast of the U.S. Weather Bureau. The result: The astrology forecast proved the most accurate. Next came Joe Goodavage and his random forecast. Finishing last was the $250 million forecast of the weather bureau. The methods employed by the astrologer were available in 150 A.D., because they were Ptolemy's.

THE CAPRICORN WOMAN

She has better things in mind— from a material viewpoint. She can be very practical. She will frustrate herself and marry a man she is not attracted to if he can improve her position. She likes prestige, wants to associate with the "right" people. She wouldn't mind living in the presidential palace. She will keep a promise if she makes one, frustrating herself to do it. Her world is too material and down to earth for her to enjoy the illusions of life.

PRESENT

TOBEY'S PREDICTION:

As we head into July we have a more inventive period. There is more open-mindedness for new ideas and concepts. The month is better for new educational pursuits. Heavier responsibilities for those born April 26th thru May 1st. Avoid entering partnerships or limiting your freedom if born October 29th through November 3rd.

ERRORS ABOUT THE MOON AND TIDES

Contrary to astronomical books, there is no proof that the moon "lifts" the tides. All we know is that the timing factor is the same. Pre-space age astronomers have insisted that the moon "lifts" the tides, while also saying it is too far away to affect animal life, always speaking in terms of gravity. If the moon does affect the tides, it can affect man, but some things coincide without a causal factor being involved. It is our contention that human behavior cycles coincide with lunar and planetary movement. We don't know of or claim, a causal relationship. Contrary to teachings, Newton did not claim a causal relationship where gravity is involved. (Continued.)
