Video tape courses

Notre Dame Academy, Labrador City has just completed the installation of Video Tape equipment which will make it possible for residents to avail of extension courses from Memorial University. Psychology 341 is now being offered, through the two medias of closed circuit television and long distance telephone. The video tape lecture material is prepared by the educational Television Centre of Memorial University and shipped to Notre Dame Academy for playback at a later date. Sufficient material for several weeks classes will be kept on hand. Each two weeks the class will view on television sets, three hours of prepared lecture material and participate in an hours telephone conversation with the course instructor on the Memorial University Campus. Assignments and examinations will be sent by mail to the campus for evaluation.

It is presently the best means of ensuring that persons wishing to continue their formal education are not deprived of that opportunity merely by dint of residing beyond reasonable commuting distance to the University campus. The project is part of an expansion of the service through the newly created division of Summer Session, evening and off-campus courses for credit. Enrollment in Labrador City consists of mostly teachers and parents, approximately 50 have registered so far. Mr. P. Congdon, M.A., Principal of Notre Dame is course co-ordinator. Classes are held once a week and the equipment is supplied through the cooperation of the Iron Ore Company of Canada and the R.C. School Board.

INSIDE THIS WEEK'S AURORA - The weekly newspaper of Labrador West keeps you in touch with all that happened, is happening and going to happen! Labrador Improvement District hosts executive of federation

The Local Improvement District of Labrador City, hosted the Executive Members of the Newfoundland Federation of Mayors and Municipalities this past week. The executive held their quarterly meeting on Saturday in the Council Chambers.

Mr. Eric Dawe, President of the Federation, said that he considered the decision to hold their meeting in this area "as an expression of good will towards Labrador". All members were considerably impressed with the area and towns in general. They were taken on a tour of the Iron Ore Company of Canada mining complex on Friday afternoon.

A decision was made to accept the invitation from Gander to hold the annual convention there, July 5th to the 7th, 1970. Mr. Dawe stated that while interest in having the convention in Labrador was expressed, suitable accommodations do not exist. Membership has grown considerably over the past couple of years with 250 members from all areas of the Province now represented.

Only 4 centers, Grand Falls, Corner Brook, Gander and St. John's can presently handle a convention of this size.

The next meeting of the executive will be held in St. John's in mid December, at which time the Federations annual brief will be presented to the Premier and his Cabinet.

The 1969 - 70 Executive consists of Mr. Eric Dawe, Mayor of Bay Roberts, and Liberal M.H.A. for that district as President, J.T. Browne, Eastern Vice - President, W.A. Cambell, Labrador City, Northern Vice - President, H. Hartnell, Western Vice - President, E.B. Foran, Secretary

Treasurer, W. Elliot representing the Community Council, G. Lace, Mayor of Harbour Breton. Absent from the meeting were: Mayor Noel Murphy of Corner Brook, Past president and Mr. John Manuel of Twillingate. The Executive expressed their thanks, for the "wonderful reception accorded them," and left later Saturday night for the return trip to the Island.

POIRER - POOLE WEDDING - A very pretty wedding was solemnized in the Church of Our Lady of The Assumption at Wabush on Saturday September 13th, Father Lemire officiating, when Catherine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Poole of Wabush became the bride of Mr. Larry Poirer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Poirer of Gander. The Bride given in marriage by her father, looked radiant in a full length white gown with long train, princess neckline, full length sleeves and bodice of lace. She was attended by her sister, Karen and little Dawn Adams acted as flower girl. The groom was attended by his brother, Alex. Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Sir Wilfred Grenfell Hotel. Out of town guests included the grooms parents, from Gander. The young couple have now taken up residence at Churchill Falls, where the groom is an employee of Eastern Provincial Airways. (Biron Photo).

SPCA accomplishes much work and more remains to be done

Progress of the society has accelerated rapidly over the past three months and much work has been accomplished in easing the suffering of domestic animals in the area. Much more still remains to be done.

The society is ably guided by a working committee comprising: Mr. P. Corcoran, president; Mrs. T.C. Murphy, vice - president; Mrs. R. Walker, treasurer; Mrs. W. Williams, entertainments; Mrs. C. Chen, entertainments; Mrs. J. Allan, entertainments.

An animal clinic located on Hudson Drive has been established and is conducted under the supervision of Mrs. T.

Duiverman and is equipped to render emergency treatment by appointments.

The consultant services of Dr. M. Pellerin of Sherbrooke, Quebec have been procured. Dr. Pellerin conducts periodical clinics whereby animals requiring professional attention can be treated. Considerable interest has been shown in these clinics, it is of note that the number of animals treated during the two day clinic held in September was in excess of 100.

A further aspect of the work carried out by the society which is perhaps, not quite so spectacular, but never the less essential, is the care and placement of pets whilst the owners have been out of town.

Another important function of the society which cannot be classified as an enjoyable episode is the collection of lost and strayed animals. At the moment animals in this category are cared for temporarily by members of the society in their own homes. Every effort is made to find a new home for them where they can receive kindness and affection. Unfortunately this is not always possible, for this reason the society are currently endeavouring to establish an animal home in the area where this function might be further extended. In this respect it is planned to launch a public appeal in the near future. The work of the society in carrying out this function would be considerably hastened if all pet owners would ensure that their animal carried some positive means of identification at all times.

Many of the stray animals around town appear to have been turned loose deliberately and are subsequently left to the mercy of the Labrador climate, apart from this numerous complaints have been received regarding acts of cruelty perpetrated on these animals, in some instances by children. This is not good.

Winter is fast approaching and the SPCA reminds all residents that this is the time when animals require a little more care. The climatic temperatures of Labrador can be severe on any animal including wild life, well - meaning owners out of kindness, may allow their animal to be outside. This is fine, however, it should be remembered, over exposure to sub zero temperatures can be extremely painful and normally results in severe frost bite which can prove fatal.

The SPCA, reminds all residents that new members are always welcome. Anyone who is interested in joining a worthwhile organization is invited to contact the SPCA C/O post box 2135, Labrador City or phone any member of the committee who will advise them as to the next meeting.

LABWAB

We are sitting in our favourite watering place recently, when who should walk in to the scene but Sam Salesman. Sam is a frequent visitor to these parts and enjoys considerable business with The Iron Factory. On this occasion Sam offers us a cold one and opens a lively discourse which proceeds as follows:

"T-Dor" says Sam, "We are reading your column from time to time and have some criticism to make: you expound loud and long about the fact that Labwab is not all that bad a place in which to live. But in fact, you are perfectly aware that it IS that bad a place to live mainly on account of the weather which is lousy to no small degree."

This kind of talk grieves us no end, and we make a mental note that we shall not buy Sam a beer in return, and furthermore will speak to Alphonse & Company and have him barred from The Happy Hours. (Incidentally, we are told that The Happy Hours is almost as fine a place to be as The Smoker on The Kyle). Anyway, we reply to Sam i kind.

"Sam" we say, "It is obvious to us that you are not acquainted with the aims of our column which are two in number. These are to promote Labwab in all respects, and to air all gripes concerning the bureaucracy we may contend with; be it government, company, institution or whatever. In this discussion you have come out with snide remarks about our weather which everyone knows is our greatest claim to fame. We are noted far and wide as a place to visit to avoid the heat, and as a place to avoid over - exposure to the sun. Furthermore, if you were at all conversant with matters Labwabian, you would realize that we have much more important matters to beef about. To illustrate our point leave us take the matter of The Gazette."

"The Gazette!" says Sam, "Now how can anyone here in Labwab beef about The Gazette?"

"Sam" we says patiently, "We are not beefing about The Gazette. In fact we are all for The Gazette. What you don't realize, being only a transient member of our society, is the importance of this journal. You see Sam, here in Labwab we are hard pressed to keep up with affairs to the south of us. Living in semi - isolation as we do, we must have means of finding out what is going on. We must know about all the latest wrinkles of separatism, bi - culturism, bilingualism, unilingualism, education, the latest shows, society weddings, up to date statistics on bank robberies, murderism and the whole bit. To say nothing of the newest slants on uni - culture and what have you. After all you can't expect us to live up here in the near North, not knowing from day to day where the next demonstration is coming off."

"Fine, so read The Gazette", says Sam.

"Ha! this is easier said than done. For example only last week the Mayor of Labrador City had to replace a new door lock on his car where someone had broken in to steal his Gazette. Yesterday, the day after you arrived in our fair community, we had a small war on our hands when two Labwabians fought over who would get the cast - off Gazette left by a passenger on Queerair. Mrs. T-Dor pays in advance for her copy, and it is hidden under the counter at the local vendor's emporium. Today you are a witness to a former Member of The Newfoundland House of Assembly offering a premium of 5 cents for a copy at the second emporium which offers this journal for sale. This is a serious matter Sam. Why only yesterday the Labwab Boy Scouts conducted a Save - Your - Old Gazette Campaign and raised two hundred and thirty - seven dollars and twenty - three cents. Of course they would not have raised that much if it had not been for a column of Fitz in which he advised the public there was a strike in the iron ore business. That particular issue was a collector's item. We have a doctor who treated one poor woman for a broken wrist. It seems she reached for the last Gazette on the rack just as Larry Lectra - Haul made a grab for the same one. The R.C.M.P. broke up a gang of conspirators not long ago. Our magistrate joined the conspiracy when he found they were smuggling copies in via canoe from Schefferville, and promptly threw the charges out of court. Mrs. Sylvia Spiral ran a Share - Your - Gazette Club for a while, but had to give it up when some of the members started scalping copies at a buck each."

"T-Dor" says Sam, "You are the original great kidder. It is not all that difficult here in the near north of this country of ours to obtain a Montreal Gazette, and don't expect us to believe that it is."

"Sam" we says, "It is that difficult, and you better believe it. We have been patient with you, we have explained one of our pet peeves in greatest detail, we have given you the facts with great clarity. Take that Gazette from your briefcase and put it back on the bar, or we shall be compelled to report this incident to Farley Mowatt."

-And he did.

HERE 'N' THERE

U.S. air cargo losses of more than $3.3 million this year through the month of July exceeded the total of all of 1968, according to the American Institute of Marine Underwriters, which based its study on insurance claims. New York's Kennedy Airport accounted for 45% of all claims in the survey. Among the losses: $33,433 worth of human hair.

Walter Stewart in an article in MacLean's Magazine tilted Can Union Save the Maritimes? "Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island and New Brunswick have 136 Provincial legislators, 38 cabinet ministers, three lieutenant-governors and 24,106 provincial civil servants looking after a population little more than two thirds the size of Metropolitan Toronto." The Municipality of Metropolitan Toronto and the six constituent civic administrations of East York, Etobicoke, North York, Scarborough, Toronto and York have a total of 15,395 permanent employees. Total population, as of 1 Jan. 1969), 1,960,041.

British Newfoundland Corp. spent $56.7 million on the Churchill Falls power project in the first six months of this year ($23.8 million in the same 1968 period.) A further $952,318 went to the lower Churchill River project.

Hard-pressed for tax measures, the Texas legislature still rejected a so-called "dirty movie tax." It would have increased taxes on admissions to certain movies, from 15 cents more on those rated "M", or mature, to 50 cents more on those explicit enough to rate an "X."

PAYOFF: Mr. H.G. Walker, head of Air Canada's employee suggestion program, is also second vice-president of the National Association of Suggestion Systems, with headquarters in Chicago. As a warmup to the association's conference in Toronto this month, he gives some examples of the benefits of a well-run suggestion program.

Air Canada last year received 1,380 suggestions from workers. Of these, 582 were adopted, $19,325 was paid out in awards, and the airline will save $99,685 in the first year the ideas are in use, and some will be useful for years. The awards record is held by an employee of IBM Corporation who wrote a 13-word suggestion during his lunch hour a few months ago. He received $75,000. IBM saved about $375,000.

Bachelor rings are promoted by a jewelry maker as a way for an estimated 2 million single adult males to proclaim their status.

DON'T SHOVEL, MELT! Shovelling snow is a tough business, so why not melt it away? That's the idea from an American firm, developers of a snow-melting mat. Made from durable heating cable insulated with 90-degree-F polyvinyl chloride and bonded to a plastic mesh, the mat can be built into your porch or backyard steps.

All connections are waterproof.

AIR FREIGHT: Oil and mining companies concerned about getting all that Arctic wealth south may have overlooked one solution being tried out in the Soviet Union, another nation with a good stretch of northern terrain.

The magazine 'Soviet Union Today' reports dirigibles are being used to transport goods out of Siberia's Yakut Autonomous republic, where diamonds, gold and oil have been found. The dirigibles cover a 2,484 mile route and can travel up to 112 miles per hour. The magazine says dirigibles were chosen because they provide cheaper service than trains and do not need the runways used by aircraft.

WORK AND TIME: A new Dominion Bureau of Statistics study, "Working-Life Tables of the Canadian Male," reports that far fewer years of work and more years of leisure are in store for Canadian men now than in 1921. One reason is that men in the 15 to 20 age group have increased their life span by three years. Men of 50 or over can look forward to an additional six months.

The most notable changes in the labor pattern occur in the young and the aged. In 1921, for example, 54% of all 15 year old boys were in the labor force. Forty years later this figure changed to 18.4%. At the other end of the scale, 74.8% of men over 66 were still working in 1921 as opposed to only 29.1% in 1961.

FUND RAISING FOR THE SMALL ORGANIZATION

By Philip G. Sheridan

This is the only practical working guide and money-raising idea book written especially for every small club and organization. Here are ways to raise money from one's own members and from the public - at - large. PTA's, Volunteer Fire Departments, Boy's Clubs, church groups, sisterhoods, etc., are constantly in need of funds. The sums are usually not large. They run from one hundred dollars to a few thousand, and the money doesn't come from the United Fund or Community Chest.

Fund Raising for the Small Organization gives the reader literally scores of fund raising schemes, along with actual case histories from the author's experience. Each one gives detailed instructions on what to do, what pitfalls to avoid, the investment involved both in money and time, and what to expect in the way of profits.

BEGINNER'S GUIDE TO STAMP COLLECTING

By Colin Narbeth

This book is exactly what the title says, for the author appreciate precisely what the beginner needs to know to help him collect stamps and to get the most enjoyment out of his hobby.

The first chapter describes the identification of a stamp - the ways of classifying perforations and distinguishing the different papers watermarks and methods of printing used. Chapter Two shows how the stamps should be examined, and the third chapter describes the various different types of stamps such as airmails, charities and locals. Having established these essential facts Colin Narbeth goes on to discuss the technique of building up a good stamp collection, the equipment needed, and the best ways of presenting the collection.

In addition to this valuable introduction, the author discusses forgeries and fakes and the exciting field of postal history.

A CAREER WITH ANIMALS By Stewart MacMillan

The idea of working with animals has a great appeal - zoos have thousands of applicants a year and many hundreds write to animal welfare societies asking for details of how to obtain jobs. Many of those who are interested in this career imagine that it will be an easy life, but, in fact, most of the jobs demand long hours in the open air doing routine tasks for modest pay. However those young people who accept the conditions and treat the work as a vocation rather than a mere job will find it extremely rewarding.

The short explanatory text provides valuable facts, and most of the excellent photographs, of which there are well over a hundred, were especially taken to illustrate the book by the leading young photographer Stewart MacMillan. To readers who are wondering about a choice of career, this book will be a most useful guide, and others who are merely attracted by animals will find it informative and appealing.

VOLUNTEERS HONOURED

The Wabush Recreation Centre held a dinner and dance last Saturday evening in honour of their volunteer lifeguards and instructors. The Centre paid tribute to the 23 lifeguards and instructors who gave of their free time to help others learn to swim. In speaking with Ron Brophy, he told me that last year these people put in an amazing total of 3500 hours of duty. All those involved were trained locally and were examined under the Red Cross program. Also during the evening 13 diplomas were presented to people who recently passed the SCUBA course given at the pool.

It is certainly a good thing for the community to see people giving up their free time to help others and such gestures go a long way in developing community spirit.

FIGURE SKATING

The Polaris Figure Skating Club opened for another season last Saturday at the Labrador City Arena. The Clubs membership this year has expended to 120 and due to lack of ice time the membership has been closed. There is a great deal of interest in figure skating in the area and the executive is hoping to arrange for a professional to visit the area over the winter. Over the summer, 4 local girls attended skating schools in New Brunswick and Ontario. This year's executive sees Mrs. Mann returning as President; Maureen Tangille, vice-president; Mrs. Brenda Hare, treasurer and Mrs. Betty Attersly, secretary.

INDOOR TENNIS

The indoor tennis club has started operations for another season and are currently playing every WEDNESDAY at the Wabush Recreation Centre. Due to lack of facilities the membership will be closed at 30 but according to a member of the executive there are still openings for a few members.

HERE AND THERE

Heard via the grapevine that a third sponsor has been acquired for the "A" League. Now the problem is to get players as there certainly appears to be a shortage this season - two new holes are presently being cleared at the golf course and plans are to make the course play a lot longer. It's a pity that there are not more boys in the Figure Skating Club. Anyone wishing to have league standings, etc. reported in this paper can do so by contacting me at Labrador City Collegiate or at 944-5232 - as we have a Thursday deadline the results of the St. Mary's - Carol Lakers series will be carried in next week's edition. Without Bobby Hull, Chicago is certain to be a dead loss. Next season they are being shifted to the Western Division and I bet they wish it was now. School boy curling is off to an early start this season and is very well organized. And at this time the amazing Mets are Champs.

this week in ASTROLOGY BY CARL PAYNE TOBEY ILLUSTRATED BY DE GRAZIA

PAST

CLAIMED BY POLAND

On April 20 we referred to Copernicus as a German astrologer. He is usually referred to as a German pioneer in books on mathematics such as Newman's WORLD OF MATHEMATICS. He fell from graces with the Pope when he defended the ancient astrological concept of the sun as the center of the solar system against the geocentric views of Ptolemy. The Polish American Congress Inc. asks us to point out that he was actually born in Poland, not in Germany. He was also famous as a cleric, a soldier and as a military commander, and was learned in medicine and Greek.

FUTURE

TOBEY'S PREDICTION:

The week can begin with tensions and worries, some possibly of a legal nature, but by Wednesday the atmosphere will begin to clear as people realize they can't press impossible demands on the other fellow. This is not a good time to enter into new contracts or agreements, but the late part of the week is more inspirational and things can get off to a better start.

PRESENT

THE CANCER PLAYGIRL

Sensitive and insecure, this little girl has her future to think about. She likes to save money. Give her some to save and she can be very sentimental. She always keeps some money hidden away for a rainy day. So, better stay home with her when it rains. She craves companionship and knows how to find it. She hates being alone and won't be for long.

PLANETS CAN BRING DOWN A SATELLITE

Planets cause solar flares which send out plasma to the earth. The upper atmosphere becomes more dense, and this can slow down artificial satellites to the point where they can become more susceptible to gravity, with the result that human calculations are thrown out and the satellite may crash to earth. On occasion such falls have been mistaken for UFO phenomenon, but this does not explain all UFO phenomena.

Scanning the market

BY C.S. DEVINE

In answer to an inquiry, these are the 10 largest manufacturing, resource and utility companies in Canada, ranked on basis of sales.

The list is compiled on the basis of the latest available results for the fiscal year ending nearest to 31 Dec. 1968. Some large companies do not appear on the list because they do not publish financial statements and reliable estimates are not available. These firms are mostly subsidiaries of U.S. and other foreign companies, several of which would undoubtedly rank in the 10 largest companies.

1. Imperial Oil Ltd.	Sales or operating revenue	$1,432,360,000
2. Ford Motor Co., of Canada	Sales or operating revenue	$1,292,318,000
3. Bell Canada	Sales or operating revenue	$1,241,116,000
4. Alcan Aluminum	Sales or operating revenue	$1,081,450,000
5. Canadian Pacific Railway Co.	Sales or operating revenue	$ 925,000,000

9. George Weston Ltd.	Sales or operating revenue	$ 729,889,999
10. Shell Canada Ltd.	Sales or operating revenue	$ 622,085,000

By net income or profit the rankings change considerably. The following are the top ten profit wise. (1) Int'l Nickle Co., of Canada. (2) Bell Canada. (3) Imperial Oil Ltd. (4) Alcan Aluminium Ltd. (5) Steel Co., of Canada. (6) Canadian Pacific Railway Co. (7) Distillers Corp. - Seagram. (8) Shell Canada Ltd. (9) Noranda Mines Ltd. (10) Ford Motor Co., of Canada.

The following is an excerpt from a recent weekly investment letter: "In less than three months, we shall be entering the decade of the 1970's. It is our opinion that this period will offer excellent opportunities for the investor seeking growth.

The longer term outlook is promising. Sustained confidence in both the consumer and corporate sectors should enable the economy to withstand current credit and fiscal restraints. Our young and growing population, expanding family formations and well maintained disposable incomes should create a growing demand for housing, furnishings, personal goods and services, travel and recreation. This demand should feed back to the production and service sectors, and induce renewed capital investment which would contribute its own self-feeding influence to overall business. In our opinion, after a pause this year and perhaps the early months of 1970, the economy should enter a decade of strong, internally generated growth.

Despite pressures to curb inflation, we do not expect our Federal Government to risk prolonged recession and high unemployment that would be necessary to root it out of our political economic system. Rather, we look for a compromise with inflation, a willingness to accept 3% annual price increases.

In our opinion, leading common stocks are conservatively priced and not vulnerable to serious deterioration. Although the overall market may still move in uncertain fashion over the near term, we would regard this as the process of establishing a base strong enough to support a new advance through much of the 1970's. It is our conclusion that high quality, reasonably priced common stocks may confidently be accumulated at this time by those willing to look across the valley of this temporary pause to the emerging growth potential of the coming decade.

now these comments are undeniably correct. But what is now concerning analysts and brokers is what sort of a market is going to emerge. The prevailing opinion is that it will be rather different from the one which died in May 1969.

After the 1966 selloff, the game resumed as before. Fad stocks and new issues regained their former following. The cult of performance really took hold, among mutual funds particularly. Shareholders of a fund which had gained 50% over a year found themselves tempted to switch to funds that had climbed nearly 100%.

This could happen again. The go-go concept will die hard. But most Canadian analysts are expecting a recovery more in line with the one that followed the 1962 selloff. For two years after that market investment interest centered on the blue chips and other more seasoned issues.

MIND TEASERS

A nurseryman has two grades of grass seed that are worth 95 cents and $1.10 a pound respectively. If he should mix these two grades of seed in the ratio of 4 to 5, respectively, what would be the value of his new mixture of seed?

ANSWER

$1.03 (plus) a pound. Multiply 0.95 by 4, and 1.10 by 5; add these two results, and divide by the sum of 4 and 5.

If I were to spent 1/3 of the cash I now have on hand plus $125, this would leave me with 1/2 of my cash plus $445.50. How much cash do I have on hand now?

ANSWER

$3,423. The sum of 125 and 445.50, or $570.50, represents the difference between 1/2 and 1/3. Divide 445.50 by the difference between 1/2 and 1/3.

Canadian mining faces price battle

Canada's iron industry, recently hit by strike and increased labor costs, is now facing a major battle over prices. The problem is whether or not the industry can go ahead with its expected increase in prices of iron ore pellets in view of the U.S. Steel Co.'s recent announcement to cut its 1970 prices of direct shipping ore. The U.S. cut - back, which will affect most grades of Mesabi ore, has almost certainly prevented any price rise in North America.

The announcement, made months earlier than the traditional year - end price reviews, has come at the worst time for Canadian ore producers, who are facing continual rising costs. The Quebec - Labrador producers have only just resumed shipments again following the most costly strike in history, which has upset all forward planning in the industry. Until the U.S. Steel price cut - back, a hefty 75c a ton, or 7.5%, it was almost certain that Canadian producers would up their prices to absorb strike losses.

"The prices had to go up to keep iron ore mines running on a profitable basis. But now it looks as though this is not of the question," said a spokesman for Hanna Mining, parent company of the Iron Ore Co., of Canada. "Unless the industry becomes more productive, there won't be any smaller deposits opened up, and producers will either go out of business or run at a loss," he added.

The North American iron ore market is affected by a world surplus, which has already swamped the European and Japanese markets. It is known that Australia is capable of shipping its vast reserves to these markets.

"The world iron ore market is extremely competitive," said another producer. Liberia and Brazil also ship to Europe and consequently prices are very keen." Despite this oversupply situation, Canadian production has been rising steadily. Last year it reached a record 46.6 million tons, up 10.4% over 1967. More than 85% is exported, with the bulk going to the United States.

Forecasts were that the industry would have another bumper production this year, with output exceeding 50 million tons. But the long strikes will knock total shipments back to around an estimated 40 million tons. One prediction that is likely to come true, however, is that if Canadian ore producers keep the prices of iron ore pellets down, high labor costs are almost certain to be reflected elsewhere, probably in higher steel prices.

Reserves categorized: Ore. It's the most important word in the mining profession's vocabulary. Yet it is frequently abused, misunderstood, sometimes misrepresented and all too frequently misinterpreted. The term "ore" should be used with discretion and prudence, it is emphasized in a new list of guidelines just established by the Association of Professional Engineers of the Province of Ontario. The various categories of ore are now spelled out in considerable detail in a revised 'performance standards' for engineers advising on and reporting on mineral properties, soon to be sent to all members of the Association of Professional Engineers.

Definition of ore and classification of reserves: "ore" is a natural aggregate of one or more minerals which, at a specified time and place, may be mined and sold at a profit, or from which some part may be profitably separated.

Estimates of "possible" or "inferred" ore should, include a statement of conditions within which the "inferred" material occurs. The arithmetical average of any amount of sampling is not necessarily representative, unless the distribution of values and number of samples are properly taken into account. A statement of how samples were taken should be given, and, where mineralization is erratic, the method of treating erratic values should be given in the narrative of the report, it is pointed out.

Guide lines on ore: The following guide lines are offered by engineer's reporting on ore reserves: (1) The term "ore" should be used with discretion and prudence. (2) Gross monetary values should never be used. (3) The summation of the tons and grades of the two main classes of ore reserves may be acceptable if it is stated that they are combined, but the inclusion of "possible" or "inferred ore" in ore reserves is not acceptable. (4) Risk factors should be stated when "probable" or "indicated" and "possible" or "inferred" ore classifications are used. "Possible" or "inferred" ore involves a high risk factor and this should be stated.

Crosbie worker complains of conduct of meeting

Complaints about the conduct of the Labrador North District Association meeting held last week in Happy Valley have been received by the Crosbie Campaign offices in St. John's.

Mrs. Theresa Ryan, a Crosbie worker who attended the meeting in Happy Valley alleged there had been gross unfairness in the conduct of the meeting, with intimidation of prospective Crosbie delegates and undemocratic activities involving the printing of ballot sheets and the policy with reference to spoiled ballots.

Mrs. Ryan said that nominations for the meeting took place in a building owned by the district President, Melvin Woodward, which was also the "Action for Joey" headquarters.

"To go in and be nominated, the Crosbie delegates had to go into a building which had "Action for Joey" committee over the door.

"I was told that I could not see a copy of the ballot paper before it was distributed," she said, "Mr. Woodward, who was in charge of the nominations, would not tell me what order the names would be in, and he would say that they would not be in alphabetical order."

"When I saw the Action for Joey slate, I found it had the names of all the people nominated in no particular order, but with an "X" against the Smallwood supporters. This list was identical to the way in which the names appeared on the ballot and the ballot used the same print and same type of paper as the Smallwood slate," she said.

The meeting was run by Mr. Woodward and there was no person from the provincial executive there. Mr. Woodward, who is a known Smallwood supporter ran the meeting himself he did not even have a meeting of the executive to discuss how the meeting should be held.

"As the voters came in they were asked to show their cards and the number and name was written down. They were then given the ballot and at the top right hand corner was a marked space for them to put in their membership number. When I pointed out that it was supposed to be a secret ballot I was told people did not have to fill in their numbers, but Mr. Woodward refused to make an announcement to that effect.

"Also, people were told that if they spoiled their ballot they would not get another one, but they should initial the ballot and put it in the box. There was also no mention made of the proper way in which to mark a ballot, by an "X" or a check mark," she said.

"No arrangements were made as how people were to be helped if they needed assistance in filling in their ballots and when a number of Indians came into the meeting the Smallwood helper sprung over to them and started to fill in their ballots for them. After a few minutes, I was able to make my complaints heard and an announcement was made asking people who needed assistance to come up to a desk at the front of the hall, but the damage had been done by then and quite a number of ballots had already been put in the ballot boxes," she said.

"The meeting was so badly run we have asked the provincial Liberal Association to invalidate the meeting and hold it again in a proper manner," said Mrs. Ryan.

PAINT CAN HANGER

A hook by which a paint can may be hung on the rung of a ladder can be fashioned very easily from a short length of plumber's perforated metal strip. Loop a short section of the strap around the top of the can and bind it tightly with a bolt and nut. Then bend the other end of the strap into a simple hook. - (Gene Von).

"A QUEER HANN"

by Charles W. Rendell

I remember him as thought it were yesterday; as well as if I had just run him down with a snowmobile and the local midwife was checking to see if his left left still belonged to him or the right track of the machine. I was a small bedlamer boy in those far off days, but I have an indelible impression of his laying the enormous feet of his hip rubber boots hard apart and starboard. They used to say that if he had been about three inches wider across the part where the butts of the toes come together he would have swept the street. He was never without his great Stilson wrench, except on Sunday mornings, and always swung it pendulum fashion when mobile. Thinking back now, I feel that it would not have gotten in the way of this arc as the wrench being hard of hearing, he had to listen broadside to the men digging the pipe ditches. He continually tried both ears after giving an order, the better to hear if there were any back answers. Only five feet tall, he had great long arms, hairy and blacksmithy like. He was complimented healthwise as being 'not very delicate' although I am not sure if the length of ones upper appendages is any guarantee of physical wellbeing. He must have worn the same pair of faded brown coveralls for life time. They used to say that once he got his footin' in a hole and had the stilson properly jawed over a coupling that it didn't matter if the thing was threated right or not. That when he was through with heaving, the damn thing knew better than to leak.

J.S. was a combination plumber and tinsmith. He made pots and pans and kettles, chimney flues and anything else that tin could be shaped into. Mother used to say that 'if 'ifs' and 'ans' made kettles and pans' there'd be no need of J.S. It's a good thing that they didn't as men of this calibre are getting harder and harder to come by. Those who have not been put out to grass have been put under it for the same reason.

Any homeowner could tie his water and sewerage requirements with the Company's facilities for a modest fee. Most everyone did, that is, all except the old folk who knew that you couldn't beat well water and consistently attributed loose bowels to the rust in the pipes. The main trunk lines ran through the centre of the single road at a depth of some six feet. Once every two years J.S. got the contract for cleaning them. These were real occasions. Grownups ballycatered from high point to high point among the morass of mud, slime, rust, old and new piping, while we kids sank our waders to the knees to watch the men sloshing around in the water below.

When they weren't digging and bailing their job was to haul a sort of tin flailed brush through the full length of the system. The brush, purposely too large, put up quite a resistance, and so 'twas hard work. But, "Pull boys pull, Katie is me Darlin" is a wonderful song to sing in order to strength up people. J.S. had a glass eye, but you'd never guess it for he was good at staring anyway. On several occasions while big game hunting down the country, he won large bets from mainland parties by contracting to shoot a caribou just within range with both eyes open. A crack shot, he never missed, much to the consternation of the 'up - a - longers'. However, on one occasion, his opposition guessed and turned their rifles on him. As far as is known, J.S. never enriched himself further by this guile.

So we all called J.S. a Queer Hann, and so he was. Once, when the Salvation Army was beginning in town, he was stopped on his way to work by a Lady Captain, all uniformed and proper. Upon being asked if he was a good Church goer, after the introductions had been made, J.S. replied, 'Tolerable'. 'And would he support the new Church in his Community?' "Indeed he would." However, he had a Church of his own and he had quite a job supporting that. For, as he enlarged, " 'twas built when we had a thousand members but the population has now shrunk to seven hundred, but m'aam, outside of warpin' a bit, the building itself haven't shrunk that much." Still, he'd do what he could. The good lady was charmed, but urged that he attend church as much as he could. Indeed, he should never miss a single Sunday. "For," she continued, everybody wants to be born again". "Not me, m'aam," replied J.S. without a biver. The officer was nigh stunned at this, but she had to asky why. " 'Fraid I'd be born a woman, m'aam," replied J.S., walking off with a smirk.

We all remember him kindly for he was always good for a laugh. Not the least on Darkie Concert nights. Boy! how he would bang that tamberine, and stamp the floor with gusto while coming back on the chorus of "Seeing Nellie Home". Unknown to him, I suppose, he even provided a smile at the very end of it all. They had to keep him over for four days to await the arrival of relatives. So as to cover up any eye discoloration, they covered his face with a book. The title. "SHOT AT DAWN."

My prayer

Teach me to love - for what is wealth or fame.
But foam upon the restless sea of life,
A fading flower, a soon-forgotten name
A sense of sore defeat ending the strife.

Help me to live - for living I shall grow;
Denying self-perhaps my deepest grief
Is nought when balanced with another's woe
Wherein is neither respite nor relief.

Teach me humility - casting the beam.
From mine own eye of prejudice and pride;
So may I see, through love's revealing gleam
In other lives the beauty long denied.

Lord make me pure in thought, in word and deed,
My deepest motives under thy control;
Upon the sea of life in joy or need
By thou the gracious Pilot of my Soul.

25 players attending workshop

Approximately 25 members of the Carol Players are participating in the Theatre Workshop, which is lasting three weeks.

Miss Patricia Carroll Brown, who is directing the Workshop, is covering all aspects of theatre, and all those who are taking part are working with great enthusiasm. The members of the group are rehearsing extracts from three plays - "Billy Liar"; "The Misalliance"; and "Invitation to a March"; and these extracts will be produced in the auditorium of the Labrador City Collegiate on Saturday, October 25, at 8:30 p.m.

Members of the public are cordially invited to be present at this production, for which no admission will be charged.

Toastmasters may re-organize

The ex-members of the Labrador City Toastmasters Club met at the Sir Wilfred Grenfell Hotel last Thursday. The purpose of the meeting was to get the past members together and discuss the possibility of re-organizing a local chapter of the Toastmasters.

After all present had expressed their views, it was decided that a meeting would be held in the meeting room of the Ashuanipi Social Club on Thursday November 13 at 7:30 p.m., at which time it is hoped that sufficient interested persons will be present, and a final decision made.

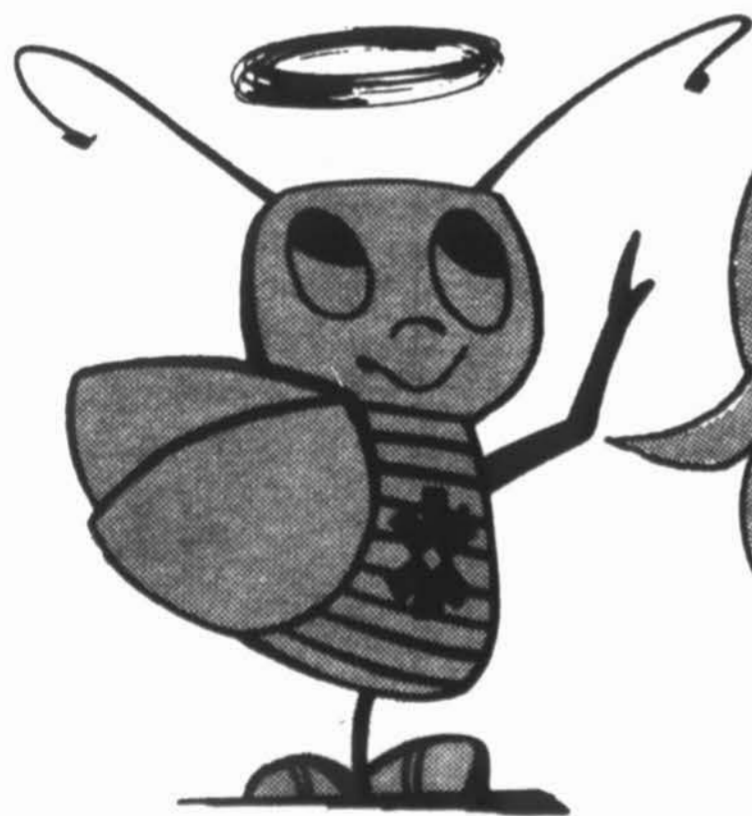

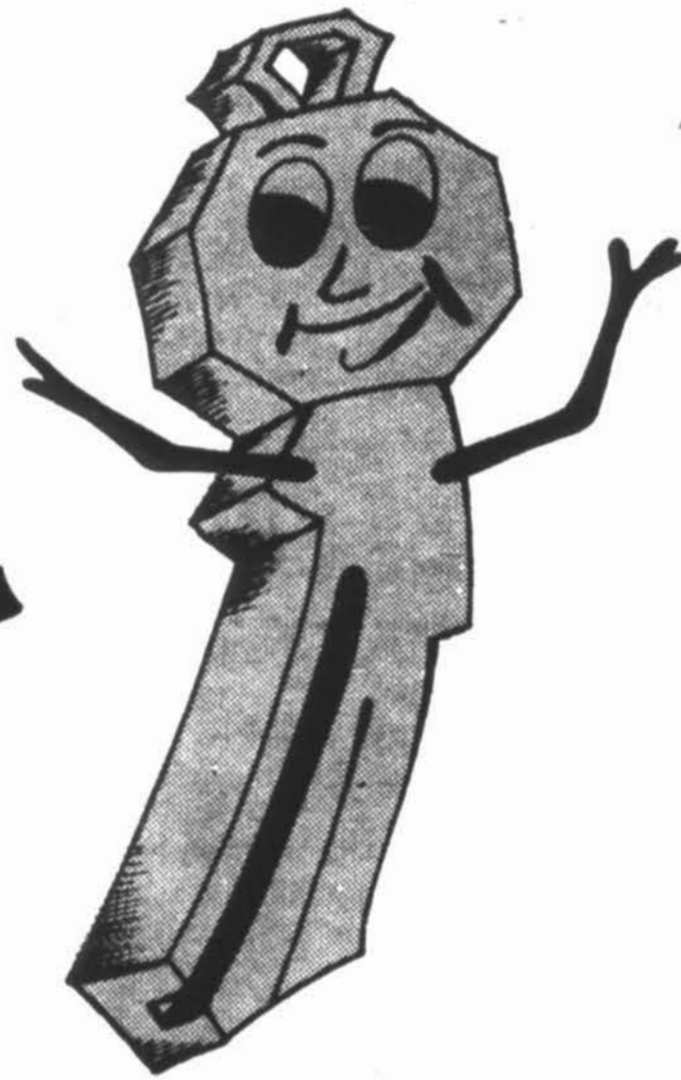

Any person interested in the formation of a Toastmasters organization will be welcome at this meeting.

HURRICANE LAMP

You can construct a very attractive and quaint-looking little hurricane lamp from some scrap materials. The base is made from a tin can, and the chimney from a catsup bottle. Cut away the bottom and part of the neck of the bottle by scoring around the outside with a glass cutter, then tapping the inside with a bent rod. Smooth the jagged edges of the glass with a file wet with turpentine, and with abrasive cloth. To make the base, hammer a 6-3/4 inch tinfoil disk over a wooden form - or spin it on a lathe - or convert an inexpensive tin skillet into a ready-made base by shortening the handle and bending it into the finger loop. The handle, candle cup, and bottle-holding rim are made from strips of tinfoil bent and soldered. Be sure to punch two rows of holes near the bottom of the ring to provide draft for your candle - (Gene Von).

A: You could have wished Angela a happy 17th birthday on September 9. You can send her belated birthday greetings in care of 20th Century - Fox Studios, 10201 W. Pico Blvd., Los Angeles.

Q: What is Annette Funicello doing now? Wasn't she one of the original Mouseketeers? --- H.B., Dayton.

A: Yes, she was an original Mouseketeer and it was probably her finest professional hour. She took time off after she appeared in beach party films to have a baby and devote her time to husband Jack Gilardi. She's currently spokeswoman for a baby products firm.

Q: Is it true John Wayne may get an Oscar for the movie "True Grit"? How old is he and where can I write to him? --- C.S., Virginia Beach.

A: Some folks think Wayne deserves an Oscar for his efforts as Rooster Cogburn in True Grit. Hollywood gets sentimental at Oscartime, and the publicity folks for Duke aren't letting the opportunity slip by unnoticed.
You can write to the 62 - year - old Duke in care of Twentieth Century - Fox, Los Angeles, Calif.

Q: I'm sick and tired of you cutting down the Monkees. I think you are jealous because you don't have their fame and money. Old people like you widen the generation gap. --- P.G., Detroit.

A: You needn't be old to envy the kind of money the Monkees made so quickly. And according to age standards, I'm on your side of the generation gap!

You are the detective Solve - a - crime

BY A.C. GORDON

You have been summoned to one of the local radio stations and are in the office of the station manager, Harry Hartley, who lies slumped over his desk, a .32 revolver in his right hand and a bullet hole in his right temple. In the office, besides you, are the police doctor who has just completed his examination, two uniformed policemen, and Tommy Trenton, popular young late-at-night disc jockey. It was Tommy who phoned you of the tragedy, and you now ask him for his story.

"In the first place," the disc jockey begins, "I didn't even know Mr. Hartley was in the building tonight. I was doing my midnight show in Studio C....I guess he must have come in after I started my broadcast."

"Wouldn't he have had to walk by the door of Studio C to get to his office here?" you ask.

"Oh, yes. But I couldn't have seen him. The doors of the studios are always closed during a broadcastkeeps out people who have no business there, to say nothing of outside noises." Tommy breaks off to light a cigarette, then resumes. "I had just announced the time -12:40 a.m. -when I heard the shot. My first idea was that it might have been a car outside backfiring - but then I decided to check. So, after putting on another record, I walked down the corridor to investigate glanced in Mr. Hartley's office here, and found ".....like this....dead!"

At this point, a beautiful, red-haired girl enters the office. She has been crying, and she breaks into sobs again when she sees the body. You recognize her as Kathy Dean, one of the station's singers, and as soon as she has calmed down sufficiently you ask her, "You were out with Mr. Handley earlier this evening, weren't you?"

"Yes. We had dinner together every night. We were engaged to marry," and she sinks down upon a chair, her face buried in her handkerchief.

You walk down the corridor outside, and take a look into Studio C where another disc jockey is now sitting in for Tommy Trenton. After a quick look around the studio, you return to the victim's office where you find Tommy looking down at Kathy Dean's bent head with tight-lipped concern.

"Things don't add up just right," you tell the young disc jockey. "I think you know much more about this than you have told me, and you're coming to headquarters with me for some intensive questioning!"

What has aroused your suspicions about this case?

SOLUTION

Tommy Trenton told you he heard the sound of the shot while he was broadcasting. This would have been impossible from the SOUND-PROOFED studio!

Shape Curves of Plywood to Create Bed in a Bower

How's for a bedroom in a bower? The trick is the use of plywood and a jigsaw. Notice that the headboard of bed follows the same curves as the valance above it. Matching fabric and wallpaper will simplify the construction, but the new glues make it possible to use fabric as if it were paper on ceiling, valance and furniture - (Barbara Barnes).
