On the local scene

MEDICAL: Dr. James Dolan has moved his practice from Wabush to Labrador City. Dr. Dolan may be contacted at the Captain William Jackman Memorial Hospital.

COURT: Federal District Court Judge S. Inder, held court at Labrador City last week. A number of civil action were heard. In one a local resident sued a St. John's Insurance Co. for a balance owing on subagent's commission. Several cases were held over to the fall session which will be held here about 15 Oct. While the court was in session a local resident, through his solicitor, issued a claim for $5,000.00 as a result of an auto accident. This case will also be heard at a later date.

MUNICIPAL: At the last meeting of the Local Improvement District, Town of Labrador City, it was decided the old Inspection Shack on Hudson Drive could be used by S.P.C.A. at its present location. The building will be moved outside the Town limits.

Seventeen new bus stops have been allocated Labrador Transportation Co. in Labrador City, for Iron Ore Company employees using this service. No other stops will be permitted.

The Board also discussed the matter of local residents using homes and garages as business locations, without permits. It was decided to put a stop to these operations.

A representative of the L.C. Board and the Wabush Local Improvement District, met with the Administrator of the Jackman Memorial Hospital to discuss Emergency Medical Service. It was decided to contact Emergency Measures Organization in St. John's and request an official from E.M.O be sent here to prepare a plan for the two towns.

The 1971 housing program has been delayed several weeks in order to allow the contractor more time to prepare the many sites where construction will take place this year.

It was decided to extend the service of removing cars, trucks etc. to May 29th. To date 11 requests have been received, including one from a resident requesting a boat be taken to the dump.

HOTEL RENOVATIONS: Recent visitors to the area were Mr. B. McDonald of Crosbie Services and Mr. S. Demerais of N.G. Valiquette Ltd. of Montreal. The prime reason for the visit was to study plans for renovation to the Sir Wilfred Grenfell Hotel.

WRONG NAME: Our sincere apologies to Bowring's new Meat Department Manager, Mr. Doug HORWOOD whom we inserted last week as Mr. Doug Howard. Seems we were doing the ad just before "The Name of the Game" and Had Glen Howard in mind. Sorry Doug but don't hold it against us when we amalgamate with Howard Publications.

MIND TEASER

If the squares of two numbers total 6,890, and the difference between their squares is 3,192, what are these two numbers?

43 and 71. Subtract 3,192 from 6,890; divide by 2 for the square of the smaller number; add 3,192 for the square of the larger number; extract square root of each result for the two numbers.

Editorially Speaking

C.B.C. RADIO: We recently read the following in the Toronto Globe and Mail and agree almost 100 per cent with these editorial observations. It has been our contention for some months that C.B.C. Radio should be forced to make a decision on whether it continues as a Federally supported operation or goes commercial and is no longer eligible for Government financial assistance. Now it seems they want both and the taxpayer will probably have to pay more.

"The CBC picks the worst."

The Canadian Broadcasting Corporation's radio service will probably never be economically competitive with private broadcasters unless it competes with them directly for mass audiences. This realization has tormented CBC administrators for generations as they have tried to balance the need of this far-flung nation for a national and public network against a reluctance to set a publicly owned and financed organization at the throats of private businessmen in a fight for advertising dollars.

The choice to be made has not included the possibility of financing the entire CBC operation out of the Government's general revenue. The price tag has always been too high. So uneasy compromises have prevailed. The wonder is that out of these compromises has emerged a first-rate national radio service.

It has relied partly on advertising revenue and partly on the Government treasury and has produced programming high in public affairs content and cultural items of limited appeal while at the same time maintaining a good balance of programs with broad popular appeal. Yet this distinctive achievement has been sneeringly referred to as a department-store schedule in a brief delivered by CBC President George Davidson to the Commons broadcasting committee.

The compromise Mr. Davidson offers manages to incorporate the worst of all possible worlds. If he gets his way he will probably destroy the fine programming tradition of CBC RADIO, catapult the CBC into direct and ferocious competition with popular stations such as CHUM and CFRB and impose extravagant costs on the paying public.

He would split the CBC into two systems: Radio One, broadcasting over AM frequencies, which would seek advertising revenue and be styled along the lines of the popular private stations, and Radio Two, comprised of FM stations which would carry no advertising and will be "planned for those who have the time to devote to focused listening and who want good music or good talk to enrich their leisure. (It) would be a medium for expressing the cultural life of the country."

Mr. Davidson is excessively vague about details for the changeover. He won't say, for instance, what programs would be abandoned. Nor will he estimate the costs of building the extra FM stations or the extra cost to the public in buying FM receivers. His brief notes that the highest ownership of FM sets is in Montreal with 69 per cent of the homes equipped. The national average is 53 per cent.

To get more advertisers for Radio One, CBC would have to attract audiences from popular private stations which, Mr. Davidson admits in his brief, concentrate on providing "background accompaniment to other activity." The CBC stations would have to do the same and that puts the lie to all the fine words and promises about continuing high-quality programming.

Mr. Davidson can argue he's not after more advertising on Radio One. But then let him explain how he intends to finance a greatly expanded FM system which will be entirely free of advertising? He admits in his brief that "FM stations have an average range of 50 to 60 miles compared to two or three times that distance for some high-powered AM stations." If, as he says, 83 per cent of Canadians will be able to tune in to Radio Two within five years, he's going to need a lot of money in a hurry.

What gives Mr. Davidson the outlandish notion that we need more pop stations? What we need are alternatives in the form of good public affairs broadcasting, extended news analysis, drama, discussions, cultural presentations—the sort of things the private stations can't seem to produce but which are an essential adhesive in a nation as big and diverse as Canada. Already there's a surfeit of pop stations.

Sure, we'd be getting an alternative from Radio Two. But what Radio Two would offer we've already got on AM and, where it's available, FM. Mr. Davidson gives us nothing but the certainty that one alternative, the AM stations, would be destroyed completely and the other, the FM stations, could not offer the scope listeners now enjoy.

"LETTER TO THE EDITOR"

The Editor
The Aurora
Labrador City, Nfld.
Dear Sirs:-

This year the Federal Government has budgeted money to help students who cannot find employment during the summer months. This is bound to cost us higher taxes sooner or later, some one has to pay for it, and as surely as you are born, it will be the working man.

This is a census taking year, and why could not students be employed for this purpose. Instead, census taking jobs have been allocated to married women. This is one hundred per cent wrong; with such a high unemployment rate, as we have. If the husband, is working, then the wife should not be permitted to work. They are taking jobs away from single girls, girls leaving school, students, and even married men with families. These men could be employed to do jobs that are now being done by married women.

In this area; in stores, the Post Office's, and with the companies there are a great many cases where husband and wife work side by side, making attractive salaries. I have seen some of them going to work arm in arm, going to their jobs, just like they were going courting. Many of these working married women have children and their place is in the home raising their children properly, rather than working and depriving some other person of a livelihood. This is not good for the country; in one house, the husband and wife work; and the next house the man couldn't get a job for love or money. When every head of the household works; everyone is happy; and every man is entitled to a job. I would like to comment on the unemployment situation on the island. We have 10 per cent of the work force without work. Yet we have all sorts of resources being developed, but we are making the rest of the world rich with our resources; while 10 per cent of our work force walk the streets searching for work in vain.

(ED. NOTE. According to latest figures 16.4 per cent of this province's work force is unemployed. The figure on the island could be closer to 20 per cent). Charity begins at home and the same thing applies to jobs. Our own people should be looked after first. Our resources cannot last forever and we definitely cannot afford to give away jobs created by these resources, regardless of the Company that develops them. Companies operating in this Province should be told in no uncertain terms that Newfoundlanders will get the jobs. I would rather see our resources stay in the ground and rot, than to be developed to give jobs to outsiders.

It is high time Newfoundlanders woke up in this area and see how they are being taken. Outsiders come here; take our jobs; and even have the gall to expect to pay less taxes than we do. They should pay double.

"A CONCERNED
NEWFOUNDLANDER"

"LAST WORD ON THE HOCKEY SEASON"

Dear Sir,

This is my position in response to the recent letter of the Chairman of the N.A.H.A. Intermediate Hockey Committee.

First and foremost, I have no intentions of following Mr. Soper's approach and degrading this hockey issue into a public name calling contest. That is too much like Newfoundland politics. I respect the personal integrity of all the people involved in our hockey. They work voluntarily and are to be commended. But this does not mean their policies are not to be questioned.

My questions were legitimate questions about intermediate hockey. In reply, I did not receive satisfactory factual answers. Rather, I was publicly told by the local and provincial people how much common sense I lacked and such other irrelevant tripe. When I questioned player eligibility I obviously hit an intermediate hockey nerve as it were.

This issue was 'provincialized' by our local executive, not by myself as was indicated, however, despite what the intermediate people think, this is a provincial issue. The underlying reason for some of our local problems is the fact that the intermediate executive have closed their eyes and ears to local hockey. (Re: The second to fourth paragraphs of Mr. Soper's letter.) This has made the local hockey powers the ultimate authority in their areas. Hence, what they say is rule no matter if it is right or wrong. There is no power of appeal.

Mr. Soper's claim that each level of hockey, local N.A.H.A. and C.A.H.A. use their own rules and regulations is wrong. This is denying that there is a National Power Structure in Canadian Hockey. The C.A.H.A. Handbook demands that hockey bodies affiliated with the C.A.H.A. follow its rules and regulations.

BAGOTVILLE AIR SERVICE RETENTION

URGED: A group of Saguenay-Lac St. Jeans Liberals is attempting to reverse a decision taken by Air Canada to abandon its Montreal-Bagotville service. About 500 delegates from Chicoutimi, Dubuc, Jonquiere, Lac St. Jean and Roberval announced this month following a Liberal meeting in Jonquiere. They said they would send letters of protest to Prime Minister Trudeau and Yves Pratte, chief executive officer of Air Canada, urging them to reverse their decision. The Liberals said they have asked the provincial government to set up a study group to look into the question of air transport between the Saguenay region and Montreal. They say they foresee the possibility of creating a provincial transport carrier or the purchase of Quebecair by the provincial government. Air Canada announced at a public hearing last December that it intended

The N.A.H.A. intermediate constitution also demands that local leagues follow its rules and regulations. If this were not a fact, why do we bother to affiliate and pay dues to these governing bodies? Why do they print constitutions and handbooks and distribute them?

The Chairman also questioned the eligibility of the Saints Hockey Club. Our team completed its registration before its first game and delivered it to the local executive early in the fall. But these registrations did not arrive in the provincial registrar's hands until mid-January after the C.A.H.A. deadline. Who is at fault; our team for being involved; the intermediate people for accepting the registration; or, the local executive for being late?

In the Canadian Amateur Hockey set up today, each hockey body is expected to follow the rules and regulations of its parental affiliate authority. This is not happening in Newfoundland Intermediate Hockey where eligibility is concerned. This fact leaves those who do follow the rules and regulations in a position of disadvantage.

The obvious implication for next year is to ignore any player eligibility rules in intermediate hockey because they are not being enforced anyway; even in provincial playoffs.

Before concluding I would like to suggest that answers to these and other hockey questions do not consist of the following approaches:

1. You have no common sense
2. If you do not like it, you do the job, or
3. No one follows the rules so therefore there are no rules.

If someone can give me some answers other than the ones I have received above, I would appreciate it. Thank you.

Yours truly,
Dennis Furlong,
Physical Educator,
Saints Hockey Club,

abandoning the Bagotville run. The case was taken to court where a judgement was rendered in favor of Air Canada in January.

AERATOR FOR BAIT: A pocket-size aerator keeps fish bait — minnows, shrimp — alive for hours. Slightly larger than a cigarette package, the Long-Lifer aerator will instill oxygen into any water-filled bait container for 24 hours. Operation is simple. A 28-inch plastic air hose with a porous airstone is attached to the unit and placed in the bait container. A flick of the switch and air is pumped into the container.

MARKET BRIEFS:

HOW TO BUY JAPANESE STOCK: Any broker can buy Japanese stocks for you. But it is better to find one who is following them and has already made a connection with a Japanese house. Your broker may buy stocks directly on the Tokyo Stock Exchange, or he may buy American Depositary Receipts or American Depositary Shares over-the-counter in New York; but this need not concern the investor. There is no real difference. Brokerage charges are broadly about the same as for buying Canadian shares and the cost of communications is absorbed by the broker. Obviously you don't try to buy 1,000 shares at .70 cents. Neither your broker nor his Japanese correspondent will welcome this type of order. Because of the volatility of some stocks on Tokyo, it is a good idea to leave discretion with your broker about both buying and selling. Alternatively, you can buy a Japanese stock fund, either Canadian or U.S.

ON THE FLOOR: Another long-awaited recovery at Domco Industries Ltd., the Montreal floorcoverings maker, is also on the horizon according to the president, Mr. Alberto Cefis. "We are sacrificing immediate benefits for long-term growth." That means 1971 will probably be another loss year, the fourth in a row.

What makes Domco something other than a company hoping for recovery is its financial strength. At $5.00, the stock sells for half the working capital per share and for one-fifth of book value. Granted, that does not mean much as long as the company is running downhill. Profitably used assets are something else though. The stock sold as high as $38.00 in 1965. Mr. Cefis is enthusiastic about the company's new floorcoverings, and a manufacturing process to lower production costs. Also, it has moved into a new plant at Farnham, Que.

Domco may not be able to put it all together to produce profits until 1972, and perhaps not then, but the stock has very little risk and could prove rewarding.

IN STYLE: Not many women have a fashion model's youth or shape, a fact that most clothing designers seem to ignore. By catering to stout women, Pennington's Stores Ltd. has prospered. In the year ended Jan. 2, 1971, the Toronto-based chain boosted sales 70 per cent to $7.7 million. Profits were up 19 per cent to $692,547 or .69 cents a share. Its profit margin was a handsome 9 per cent.

With 25 stores (including the five added in 1970), Pennington's could boost sales by 17 per cent and profits by 12.5 per cent this year, say a couple of analysts. If so, it could earn .80 cents a share. At $9.50, the stock sells for about 12 times estimated earnings. Pennington's is not a fastgrowth-concept retailer like Consumers Distributing Co., so it may not get much of a multiple play. But it is one of the few retailers whose shares might add anything to a small investor's portfolio these days.

SOMEDAY STOCKS: Not every stock has been given its due in the market recovery, but not many have been overlooked either. That includes the shares of two notable Canadian money losers. Great Canadian Oil Sands Ltd. has moved from a 1970 low of $3.85 to $7.00. Microsystems International Ltd. has shifted from $4.00 to $5.25.

G.C.O.S. (96 per cent-owned by Sun Oil Co.) has been a white elephant since it began producing oil from Alberta's tarsands in 1967. Instead of earning $8 million last year, as originally projected, it lost $16 million. What appeals to some investors now is the enormity of the tarsands reserves. But on profit potential, G.C.O.S. is risky. To create the earnings to justify the $7.00 price of the stock, 1970 operating costs would have to be cut in half, says one analyst. Microsystems, controlled by Northern Electric Co., lost $8.7 million last year and will lose again in 1971. But with luck, sales of its microcircuits could double over 1970 levels to about $12 million. If so, chances look good for breaking even by the end of 1972, as management had predicted. At $5.25, the stock is at half its issue price. "Our firm isn't recommending it," says one analyst, "but I think it's a very interesting speculation."

SOLIDIFICATION: The pollution stock image was never enough to disguise slow progress at K.S.F. Chemical Processes Ltd. of Toronto, which has been a turnabout candidate for more than two years. But the recent news is brighter. After being taken over and generally shaken up by Wean Industries of Pittsburg in 1970, the company reported a profit of $158,000.00 or .39 cents a share. It had lost money in the two previous years. "I can't say anything about our new contracts until the annual meeting" says the new president Mr. J. G. Scherer. K.S.F.'s process for removing acid in steel pickling is attracting more interest. It has also licensed another line, known as a solidification process, which recovers acids, oils, paints and garbage in solid form. The stock, first issued at $2.20, peaked at $5.50 in 1969. It now trades on the Calgary Stock Exchange around $2.90, or roughly eight times 1970 earnings.

ANGELIC: The minister, hoping to get acquainted with one of the new members of his congregation, knocked on the front door of her home one evening.

"Is that you, angel?" came the woman's voice from within.
"No," he replied, "but I'm from the same department."

EARLY ARRIVAL: "Young man," said the angry father that evening, "didn't you hear the clock strike four when you brought my daughter home this morning?"

"Yes, sir," replied the lad. "It was going to strike eleven, but I grabbed the gongs and held them so it wouldn't disturb you."

The father turned away and muttered, "Doggone, why didn't I think of that in my day?"

OBEYING SIGNALS: Paying no attention to the red traffic light, the cars whizzed by, or the policeman's whistle, the little old lady marched across the street.

Brakes squealed, horns blasted, and the officer walked angrily up to her. "Say, Lady," he growled, "didn't you see me raise my hand? Don't you know what that means?" "Well, I should hope so," snapped the lady, "I've been teaching school for thirty years."

NO ACCOUNT: The wife was showing her new mink jacket to a group of friends. "That looks like a very expensive garment," observed one.

"It must have cost quite a bit."

"You might say we got it on a trade-in," said the lady's husband.

"Really? What did you trade for it?" asked the guest.

"Our old bank account," muttered the husband.

A YOUNG "EXPO" FAN: The boy brought home his examination paper and his father was admittedly less than surprised when he read his son's answer to the following question: "What are the last two lines to O Canada? His son's answer read: "We stand on guard for thee. Play ball."

A DIFFICULT SHOT: Golfer: "I'm anxious to make this shot. That's my mother-in-law over there on the clubhouse porch."

Friend: "That's 200 yards. You'll never hit here from here."

NOT FAST ENOUGH: The owner of a racehorse asked his jockey why he didn't ride his mount through a hole when it opened up on the final turn. "Sir," said the jockey, "did you ever try to go through a hole that was going faster than your horse?"

BEARING GIFTS: "Will you tell the court what passed between you and your wife during the quarrel?" asked the judge.

Replied the husband: "A flat-iron, a rolling pin, six plates and a tea-kettle."

MORE DIFFICULT: Admiring the Indian's necklace, the lady tourist finally asked: "What are those things?"

"Alligator teeth, ma'am," replied the Indian.

"Oh, I see," said the woman. "I suppose they have the same value for your people that pearls have for us?"

"Not quite," he answered. "Anyone can open an oyster."

THE LABOR FRONT

CANADIAN PACIFIC IMPROVES PENSION: Pension plan improvements for some 43,000 employees of Canadian Pacific will go into effect July 1st 1971. The improvements include an increase in pension benefits for active and retired employees with service after 1 Jan. 1956, and a new voluntary early retirement program for employees when they reach the age of 60.

The improvements are to be effective without any increase in the current level of contribution by employees. The pension rules apply to employees of Canadian Pacific, CP Rail, CP Transport and CP Telecommunications as well as 10,000 pensioners and 5,000 widows of pensioners.

The early retirement program will be introduced in stages over the next two years. By 1 July 1973, it will reduce to 25 years from 35 years the length of service required for voluntary early retirement after the age of 60. Under the new arrangements, the formula for calculating pension benefits will be increased to 1.5 per cent from 1.25 per cent of each year of service retroactive to 1 Jan. 1956.

The new formula will apply to all present employees and to pensioners and widows of pensioners who retired after 1 Jan. 1956. It will mean increases in pension benefits ranging up to 20 per cent depending on the commencement date of service with the company.

Others changes in the pension rules included:

Retirement with pension because of disability after a minimum of 15 years instead of 25 years of service, provided length of service and age total 60.

A reduction to 15 years from 25 years in the length of service an employee must have before his wife qualifies for a survivor's allowance, provided his length of service and age total 60.

The new pension arrangements were recommended by the joint management-union pension committee of Canadian Pacific and approved recently by the Board of Directors. An information circular outlining full details of the changes in pension rules is to be sent to all employees.

VACATION PAY FOR FARMERS: Norway will soon become the first country in the world to finance vacations for farmers. Under proposals to be submitted to Parliament, farmers and their wives will receive four weeks' vacation each year and about $280.00 in cash. The plan is scheduled to start 1 June for a four-year trial period.

SUNDAY FUN, SUNDAY WORK: The Ontario Law Reform Commission has recommended giving Sunday a new meaning in provincial legislation. And, whether people like the new definition or deplore it they've got to admit it's realistic. It finds Sunday is no longer a day exclusively set aside for religion and rest. Now recreation has been added. Necessarily, there's conflict.

Men and women who must work to keep the recreational wheels turning, can't use Sundays for rest or religion. Or for recreation, either. In effect Sunday has disappeared from many families' calendars. Plebiscites and legislative decisions over the last decade make it clear the majority of Ontarians want it that way. In keeping with the decided trend toward Sunday activity, the Law Reform Commission recommends a clear-cut formula for running the emergency and commercial services that people also demand — food, variety and drug stores, gas stations, and restaurants, among others.

But the commission has chosen a seemingly impractical blueprint for Sunday commercial schedules. If a store is worth keeping open for six hours, why not eight or 10 hours — or for whatever period there's a substantial demand for its services?

If a variety store, for example, conducts steady trade from 10 a.m. until 10 p.m., how is the proprietor to decide which six hours of opening time will best serve his customers? It would seem only sensible to base the time formula upon demand and necessity, not an arbitrary period.

The commission's sincere effort to draw a line on the erosion of Sunday, to limit the number of people who must lose their opportunity for rest and recreation so that others may enjoy it, is commendable. There's a moral obligation on government and business to provide free Sunday time for as many Ontarians as possible. (Most businesses have followed that principle without any legislative pushing, holding Sunday operations to the practical minimum.)

Even with firmly-established safeguards against turning Sunday into a working day for growing number of Ontarians, the irresistible drive toward more and more Sunday activities demands that more people must work to cater to those activities. To them, there will be no Sunday.

ANOTHER SHUTDOWN: International Harvester Co. of Canada Ltd., a wholly-owned subsidiary of International Harvester Co. of Chicago will close its Hamilton plant for 14 weeks starting 31 May. The shutdown will put 1,100 employees out of work. The company laid off 160 workers in March and a further 200 last month.

The shutdown is blamed on a slow market in the U.S. for farm equipment. The Hamilton plant ships between 60 per cent and 80 per cent of its output to U.S. customers.

This year, for the first time, Canada Hospital Day, Wednesday May 12, has been marked by public tours of the Captain William Jackman Memorial Hospital in Labrador City.

Major Eleanor Johnson, Administrator of the hospital, who originally had the idea of the tours, said the main purpose of Canada Hospital Day is to draw people's attention to hospitals throughout the country, to promote understanding of the factors going into each day's work.

The tours, conducted by the Ladies' Auxiliary to the hospital, took place from 2:30-4:30 and from 7:00-9:00 p.m. Wednesday, with refreshments following.

School children have been taken around before, but usually as an introduction to the fields of nursing and medicine, said Major Johnson.

Included in the tours were the out-patients' department, physiotherapy room, laboratories, X-ray department, central supply room, operating room, the hospital chapel, and the baby, pediatric, maternity and medical wards.

Approximately thirty people attended the tours, one of the visitors being David Butler, Deputy Minister of Labrador Affairs.

The guided tours, conducted by Mrs. Angus Bryans and Mrs. Arthur Henderson in the afternoon and by Mrs. Frank Porter and Mrs. Bill Campbell in the evening, were the first of their type for the 2-year-old auxiliary.

Although not as good a response as hoped for, Mrs. Henderson, President of the Ladies' Auxiliary, said it would have been worthwhile if only a dozen people had come.

To further promote the day, one thousand placemats depicting hospital scenes were also distributed to restaurants in both Wabush and Labrador City.

The Ladies' Auxiliary, besides conducting the tours this year, has helped the public health nurse in clinics, and has set up library and mobile store facilities in the hospital, besides contributing approximately $2500 worth of equipment.

"We are certainly willing to help in any way in which we have been asked," said Mrs. Henderson.

There are no definite plans yet for similar tours next year, she said.

GUIDING NEWS CAROL LAKE DISTRICT

On Saturday, May 15, a Mother and Daughter Banquet, sponsored by the Carol Local Association, Guides and Brownies, was held in the Roman Catholic Church Hall, with approximately 350 in attendance.

The evening began with the Guides and Brownies singing "Johnny Appleseed". After the Toast to the Queen, mothers and girls enjoyed a chicken dinner.

Following dinner, the mistress of ceremonies, District Commissioner Bette Hardie, introduced special guests Mrs. Sara Andrews, District Commissioner for Wabush, Mr. Scottie Robinson, President of Branch 47, Royal Canadian Legion, Labrador City, as well as Local Association members and Guiders.

Mrs. Dudie Jenkins was presented with a tray in recognition of her four years as Badge Secretary and her many years in Guiding. The names of the Best Brownie from each pack and the Best Guide from each company were announced, and plaques are to be presented to each. Those receiving awards are as follows: 1st Carol Brownie Pack, Brenda Evelyn; 2nd Carol Brownie Pack, Judy MacNeil; 3rd Carol Brownie Pack, Janice Mastelko; 4th Carol Brownie Pack, Shannon Timmins; 5th Carol Brownie Pack, Joy Drover; 1st Carol Guide Co., Denise Flemming; 2nd. Carol Guide Co., Carol Mullaly; 3rd Carol Guide Co., Jackie Leonard.

Ten Rangers were invested into the 1st Carol Air Ranger Flight by Commissioner Hardie, assisted by Mrs. Anne Healey, Ranger Guider Captain. The girls were introduced to the Commissioner by Margo Perry, Ranger Chairman. Those invested were: Debbie Attersley, Barbara Bevan, Christine Bevan, Lynn Bright, June Chen, Robin Hardie, Maria Hickey, Philomena Hurley, Helli Kilburn and Linda Mandville.

After the ceremony, those present were treated to a number of songs by the Gemini Four, consisting of Lynn Bright, Colleen Hickey, Rosarii Lannon and Dorrez Penney. Judging from the applause, they were much appreciated.

The singing of "Taps" brought the evening to a close.

Mrs. Robert Squires of Labrador City was presented with a Certificate of Merit for ten years' service as a teacher-sponsor with the Canadian Red Cross Youth. Mr. Edward Eastman (President) expressed his pleasure in presenting this well-deserved award to Mrs. Squires for her extensive work with the children. Mrs. Squires commented that she had found working with the children very rewarding because of their enthusiasm for the various projects undertaken.

Miss Christine Parsons, Red Cross Youth Chairman, underlined Mrs. Squires' opinion when she presented her report to the meeting. Grades 5 and 6 have made stuffed toys which were sold to add to their funds. Pillows have been made and sold and the proceeds donated to the Vietnam fund. A Contribution has been made to the Senegal project, another to Red Cross Headquarters and still another large contribution to the Disaster Fund for St. Jean Vianney. Mr. Eastman asked Miss Parsons to convey his appreciation to the classes for their donation to the campaign funds and also commended the excellent work done by them.

The response from Labrador City and Wabush residents and businesses to the campaign for funds this year was very gratifying. The breakdown is:

Labrador City, $1,496.07.
Churchill Falls and Twin Falls, 658.95.

Wabush — Door - to - door, 623.93; Bottles, 55.50; Businesses, 420.00.

Total $3,253.45.
Messrs. Lynn Gallant and Jim Barron, Co-chairmen of the Campaign Committee, informed us that this figure is not yet final as several donations will be received in the near future. It is hoped to have a complete breakdown and the total donations received by next month.

Appreciation of the work done by all the canvassers was expressed by the Chairmen and the President. In Wabush, the Home Nurses once again rendered service and in Labrador City, Mrs. Arthur Henderson, President of the Captain Jackman Memorial Hospital Ladies Auxiliary, organized the members of the Auxiliary to cover that town.

Roaming the Globe

EATING AT A RESTAURANT IN U.K. FRUSTRATING: Eating out in the city of London is rather like taking part in an intricate ballet, unless every movement is just right, the whole effect can be destroyed. The British have managed to develop a complex restaurant ritual which every night leaves hundred of North American tourists who encounter it for the first time sputtering with anger or embarrassment.

The restaurant ritual obviously presents no problems to the Londoner who's well-accustomed to it. But first-time overseas visitors ought to be given a detailed handbook explaining it the moment they get off the plane.

Rule number one, for instance, might read: "Always book a table in advance. No self-respecting restaurant worthy of the name will let a customer in without a reservation. Every table in the place may be empty, but the house has a reputation to protect!" From there, the handbook could go on to describe the menu trick, which involves presenting you with a huge, detailed menu and then sending a waiter over exactly two minutes later to stand, pencil poised, to take the order. This is the first real crisis point in the restaurant ritual, and most tourists fail the test miserably by panicking at the sight of that motionless pencil and ordering the first thing that comes to mind. Anyone familiar with the ritual will immediately send the waiter away to get a drink or chop some onions or something, thereby asserting the customer's authority for the rest of the evening.

The handbook should then explain that, unlike North American restaurants, prices on British menus are quoted on the basis of each individual item ordered. The diner who order a filet mignon will get exactly that, one small piece of meat, sitting forlornly by itself in the middle of a very large plate. No potatoes no vegetable, nothing to keep it company.

Unsuspecting visitors who aren't aware of this usually nod their heads happily after ordering the main dish as the waiter asks: "What would you like with it sir? Duchess potatoes? Mixed salads? Asparagus? Deep fried courgettes?" Only later do they discover the potatoes add 45 cents to the bill, the salad was worth $1.00, and the asparagus and courgettes $1.60 each.

The wine is another potential pitfall. Wines in Britain can be extremely good value, but too many tourists fall into the trap of choosing them by price rather than by quality. For some unknown reason, inferior Italian wines are often priced higher in restaurants than good quality French vintages. The tourist choosing on a price basis may pick a Chianti at $4.15 over a Cotes de Beaune Villages at $3.50. His reward is a sneer from the wine waiter and silent glee on the part of the manager.

The next warning in the handbook should be about the coffee racket. Restaurants invariably hit their customers with exorbitant charges for a demi-tasse of coffee. Even in an "all-inclusive" meal, coffee will be charged extra.

The price varies from 20 cents a cup in a cheap restaurant to 40 cents or 50 cents, or even more, in a more expensive place. It leaves tourists sputtering with outrage. Finally, the handbook should warn visitors that the several mysterious charges that show up on their bill do not constitute flagrant padding, at least, not in the North American sense.

Tourists are often left in red-faced embarrassment after angrily accusing a waiter of padding a bill and discovering they have been nicked for:

- (A) a cover charge. Almost every restaurant in London charges you between 20 cents and 50 cents just to sit down.
- (B) a bread charge. Every time you help yourself to another roll it's probably costing sixpence or ninepence.
- (C) a charge for the cream you poured on your apple pie or into your coffee.
- (D) a service charge.

Every restaurant does it, so there's no point getting into a stew over it.

Finally, the handbook could make one last, and important, point to the visitor. Even with all the additional charges and the rather strange restaurant ritual, the diner in London will eat better than at home, at about two-thirds the cost.

Stuart McGregor is a Yellow-Cab driver in California. But he is a cab driver with a difference, in that he is more interested in tipping his customers than receiving tips from them. This seems unusual, but it happens every day. His 'tip' to his customers could be a Scripture Portion or Selection in Korean, Japanese, German, French, or any other language, including English, which he feels will meet someone's need; he carries a wide range of Bible Society Scriptures with him in his cab.

WIVES FOR K.P.: The U.S. Army, abolishing K.P. to encourage enlistments, is hiring some soldiers' wives to work in the mess halls. They are among the civilians employed at four United States bases to relieve G.I.'s of kitchen police, which enlisted men have dreaded for generations.

The four bases are Fort Bragg, N.C., Fort Benning, Ga., Fort Carson, Colo., and Ford Ord, Calif. The new K.P. policy, which is scheduled to become nationwide by 1 July this year, is part of the Defense Department's plan to make military life more acceptable and to contribute to the feasibility of an all-volunteer Army.

AFTER THE WORSTED SUIT Last fall, it was women vs. the midi. This year it will be men vs. knitted suits. Still wearing a worsted tweed, Mr. Danny Taran, the trendy president of Montreal's Consolidated Textile Mills Ltd., tells us that worsteds are out and knitted fabrics are in. "By fall, 60 per cent of the men's wear will be in knits." Weekend slacks are fine but will the peacock take his plumes to the office? "If he can't buy anything else, he will," claims Mr. Taran.

NEW E.P.A. SERVICE, Eastern Provincial Airways recently inaugurated daily Boeing 737 service between Moncton, N.B. and St. John's, Nfld. Announcing the new flights, E.P.A. District Sales Manager, Cyril Penton said a special treat is in store for passengers flying between St. John's and Gander and between Gander and Deer Lake on flight 109 — cold beer and pretzels will be served. Hot dinners will be served between Deer Lake and Sydney.

SEXY SEMINAR: Geeske Kop, 31, has retired as a strip-tease star to open a sex school for wives in Amsterdam, Holland. "My object is to forestall divorce by keeping marriage exciting," she declared. Her first class of 16 housewives is being taught how to select alluring clothes and wear them to best advantage.

VEHICLE TEACHES WHILE IT TOTES: Young children, even those who are crippled, can quickly learn to propel and steer a sturdy four-wheeled toy vehicle developed in Britain. As well as being a toy for children of all ages, says the designer, it helps infants to coordinate mind and muscle and makes some handicapped children mobile.

Called the Doodlebug, the toy is controlled by two vertical hand levers that drive the rear wheels independently. By pulling and pushing the levers in unison, the toy can be made to move forward or back. By varying the controls, it will turn. There are two versions, one in tubular steel for older children, a smaller version, for children from 14 months, in shell-molded polypropylene.

BOUNCING BACKACHE: Flora Laurie's backache wasn't lumbago at all. It was a seven-pound baby boy. Eight hours after the doctor diagnosed the "Pain", Mrs. Laurie of Dumbries, Scotland, gave birth (after 16 years of childless marriage). "What a surprise," the 39-year-old mother said later. "I never had the slightest thought I would be pregnant."

TURN ABOUT: A 30-year old bus driver of Manila, Phillipines, told police recently he sold his house for $50.00 while his family was on vacation "to get even" with his wife. He told police his wife had sold the furniture while he was on an earlier trip.

N.L.C. INCREASES LICENCE FEES: The Newfoundland Liquor Commission, since 1 April 1970, has increased its licence fee for a restaurant from $150.00 to $300.00 and the lounge licence fee was also increased, from $300.00 to $500.00 information tabled in the House of Assembly last week, showed. Replying to a written question by Liberal Reform Leader John Crosbie, Finance Minister Eric Jones also disclosed that during the period from April 1, 1970 to March 31, 1971, the total amount collected by the commission as a result of licence or permit fees was $176,050.00.

The Daily Light

"The life of Jesus...made manifest in our mortal flesh."
(2 Corinthians 4,11.)

We may have two lives. First, our own inherited from our parents and given us by our Creator. That life has some value, but how soon it fails and feels the forces of disease, decay, and approaching death!

But we may have another life, or rather the life of Another — the life also of Jesus. How much more valuable and transcendent is this life! It has no weakness nor decay nor limitation. Jesus has a physical life as real as ours, and infinitely greater; He is an actual man with a glorified body and a human spirit. And that life belongs to us just as much as the precious blood He shed on the cross at Calvary, and the spiritual grace He bestows. He has risen and ascended as our living Head and He is ever saying to us, "Because I live ye shall live also."

Why should we limit Him to what we call the Spiritual realm? His resurrected body has in it all the vitality and strength that our mortal frame can ever need. Some day He is to raise us from the dead by virtue of that resurrection life. Why should it be thought a strange thing if faith may now fore-date its inheritance and claim in advance part of its physical redemption; a little handful of the soil of that better country; just as a seed is to bring forth more glorious fruit.

This was Paul's experience. why may it not be ours? There was a day at Lystra when under a shower of stones Paul's life was ebbing out and he was left for dead outside the city gates. Then it was that the life also of Jesus asserted itself, and calmly rising up in the strength of his Master, he walked back through the streets whose stones were stained by his own blood, and quietly went on his way preaching the Gospel as if nothing had happened.

The secret of this life is to live so close to Jesus that we shall breathe His very breath and even be in touch with His life and love. So let us live by Him. Healing is in His living body. We receive it as we abide in Him. We keep it only as we abide in Him.

There are miraculous possibilities for the one who depends on God.

St. Lawrence Seaway is becoming obsolete

(REPRINTED FROM THE FINANCIAL TIMES OF CANADA).

General in Michigan, and now a consultant to the Detroit Edison Co.

TORONTO— The vastly expensive Montreal-Lake Ontario section of the St. Lawrence Seaway was built in the late 1950s to design specification that automatically doomed it to early obsolescence.

Sir James is not optimistic that such joint federal intervention will come soon enough or be broad enough to arrest the decline in the Seaway's overseas traffic growth, enable lake shipping companies to exploit fully economies of scale in new vessel designs, or prevent other modes from achieving near-monopolies on freight traffic.

If the transportation needs of the Great Lakes basin—which by the year 2,000 is expected to be most economically-intensive area of the world—are to be properly served, a further $3 billion will have to be spent on seaway and Welland Canal Locks by Canada and the U.S.

These are among the more important conclusions to be drawn from a recently-released study, "Transportation of Freight to the Year 2,000 with Particular Reference to the Great Lakes Area," by Sir James Easton, former British Consul

NOT TOO HOPEFUL
Nonetheless, several groups of interested politicians, port and harbor interests and users are concerned with the problems and are in a position to seek solutions aggressively. There also have been some favorable legislative moves in the United States to waive debt interest payments by the U.S. seaway administrative body, to fund the construction of lake vessels and to ship military cargoes on a more intensive scale from U.S. lake ports.

By the end of this century, the combined population of Ontario, Quebec and the states bordering the Great Lakes probably will be 120 million. A disproportionately large share of the gross national product and effective buying income of both nations also will continue to be concentrated in this area.

Water resources and access to low cost waterborne transportation have been prime factors in intensifying economic activities in the area, and will continue to be important. If freight rates assessed by the various modes of transport on services within, to and from this basin are to be kept as low as possible, intermodal competition must be encouraged.

Over the next 30 years, waterborne transportation of freight—either directly between overseas and Great Lakes points, or between and among Canadian and U.S. points on the inland waterway—will be increasingly handicapped by the limited dimensions of the lower seaway locks.

The Montreal-Lake Ontario locks were opened in 1959 and are already nearing obsolescence. This is because they were constructed to the same basic dimensions—length, breadth and depth—as the Welland Canal locks, some which were built 30 years before.

An expansion of the Montreal Lake Ontario locks and of the Welland Canal locks to equal the dimensions of the new lock built to connect Lake Superior and Huron on the U.S. side, is one of the first priorities if the waterway's competitive ability is to keep pace with advancing technology in ocean transport and other modes.

At some point a twinning of these locks will be required to augment their capacity. As work in these directions continues, the third priority is to extend the navigational season on the seaway to year-round from the present eight months. This extension must be made predictable and dependable enough to enable vessel operators to plan their sailing schedules months in advance.

Development and growth of the laker trade and domestic and overseas traffic through the seaway are vitally dependent on government action, according to Sir James. Laker trade will continue to grow in importance to domestic users, but would be improved if the navigational season were extended.

"Keeping the St. Lawrence Seaway open in the winter would also permit overseas bulk shipments from the major Great Lakes ports," he says. "The overseas general cargo traffic (the most valuable in terms of economic benefits to port communities) is threatened most by container ships offloading on the east coast, by the short navigational season, by railroad competition and by the inadequate dimension of locks."

He suggests that over the next several years, two or three key ports will dominate the foreign cargo activities of those Great Lakes conventional ship operators still providing such services. The success of these remaining non-containerized direct overseas shipping services will in part hinge on implementing an inter-port freight collection system.

SLOW PROCESS

By tug and barge, by trucks or by rail, cargo would be gathered at various outlying harbors and delivered to the two or three central ports in advance of ocean vessel arrival. A feeder system would then distribute among the lesser Great Lakes ports the overseas imports unloaded at the central depot by the previous ocean ship arrival.

"Government action is essential if these issues are to be tackled and overcome. If they are, developments would in most cases be gradual and the major improvements, such as increasing lock dimensions and thus aiding year-round overseas operations, would probably take 10 years to complete."

If such support is forthcoming, the seaway and lake ports could have a new lease on life valid until the turn of the century, Sir James says. If not, overland transport modes will continue to divert an increasing share of the most lucrative traffic, eventually giving rise to a virtual monopoly, with its adverse implications for rates.

Lake trades would be handicapped, and many port investments should become redundant.

GET THE POINT! Spike heels have replaced boots as the favorite foot-wear of coeds in Brussels. Is it because they look sexier and more feminine? "Not at all," explained judo professor Simone Beck, 24. "There is no better defence for a girl attacked from behind than to dig her spike heel into the attacker's foot. Boots are a useless burden."

BADMINTON CLUB NEWS

On Sunday, May 9th the Labrador City Badminton Club held its "End of Season" tournament. Seventeen members participated, the result of which are as follows:

- Ladies' Singles, Denyse Gosse;
- Men's Singles, Ernie Rasko;
- Ladies' Doubles, Denyse Gosse, Pat Brennan
- Men's Doubles, Ernie Rasko, Frank Sullivan
- Mixed Doubles, Ernie Rasko, Denyse Gosse.

Stan Hayward, who is being trained under the watchful eye of ex-amateur boxing star from England, John Bastow will be heading the boxing show at the arena Sunday night. He is showing tremendous improvement and is fast developing into a main eventer.

The 1970 Canadian amateur middleweight champion, Jim Mallish, will be arriving here from Ottawa Saturday to meet Stan in a 10 rounder. Mallish who has raked up a collection of amateur titles is undefeated as a professional scoring eight straight Kayo's. He is a southpaw with a solid left-hook. All of his opponents have been dropped before the fourth round.

Mallish is under the management of Ross McCallum a former resident of this area who started Terry Hayward and Bill Drover off on their boxing careers.

McCallum says "Stan is a tough boy who can hit but he better be sharp if he wants to take Mallish. Mallish will punish him in the early rounds and by the 5th it'll be all over." He is a walk-in fighter and knowing Stan I suppose the bout will take place mostly in the centre of the ring.

Ross will also be arriving here Saturday with his protege.

Dave Simon will be up against the toughest opposition of his amateur career Sunday when he will face Mike Landry of Ottawa in a scheduled 5-rounder. Landry who is described as one of the hottest amateur prospects to come out of the capital is a clever boxer who can punch with either hand.

Dave, who fought himself out of local opposition recently fought the silver medalist winner of the Winter Games at P.E.I and was holding his own till he got caught by a low blow which ended the fight. He'll be out to put himself back on the winning side this Sunday.

Albert Summerville will be out for someone's hide Sunday night, and that will belong to no other than the Wabush "Will" Mike Coady. They will be meeting in a 5-round rematch. In their first meeting the bout was declared a draw, which many figured Coady should have won.

Coady predicts that, "Only one will be walking out of the ring this time, and he has yet to be decked."

Albert wasn't in condition for their first bout, but is training for this one. This should be quite an interesting bout.

P.J. Alyward and Pete Ryan will be meeting in another 5-rounder.

Boxing returns to the L.C. Arena on Sunday night and the main bout will see Stan Hayward against the 1970 Canadian Amateur middleweight champ, Jim Mallish.
